BIG R.A.F. CRAFT IN FLAMES NINE OF HER CREW PERISH

CRASHED ON ITALIAN MOUNTAIN-SIDE

(Special to "Telegraph")
(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, February 16, 8.15 a.m.)

Rome, Feb. 15.
Nine men of the British Royal Air Force were killed when a big flying boat crashed on the slopes of Mount Peloritani, en route from Naples to Malta, to-day.

The machine belonged to a squadron of four "Short Singapore" four-engined boats, and was on a test flight to Singapore. It is a new type of craft, the United Press reports.

Earlier, Reuter had told a story of the tragedy. A peasant saw the whole affair and rushed with a dreadful story to the nearest post of Carabinieri.

It was from Messina that the tale of the eye-witness came. He was interviewed at the city by Reuter.

He said he was digging on a terrace on the mountain side at 9.30 o'clock when an aeroplane burst out of the clouds at the mountain top. It was flying on a tremendous slant, one wing "flashed down and the other up." The lower wing seemed to sweep the mountain side.

Suddenly there was a puff of smoke, followed by a tremendous explosion and the machine burst into flames before hitting the scarred face of the mountain.

When it did strike it was already breaking up, and great portions of the aircraft were flung, burning, down the mountain.

The peasant rushed to the spot. He saw two men, both burned, in the front of the machine. But the flames were leaping so high and so fiercely hot were they that he could not approach near enough to attempt a rescue.

He turned away and ran all the way to the nearest village, where he reported the tragedy to the Carabinieri.

NINE BODIES

It is now stated that nine bodies have been recovered from the wrecked machine. It is believed that was her entire crew.—Reuter.

NINE ON BOARD

London, Feb. 15.
The Air Ministry has received information that the Singapore flying boat K3595 which was flying to-day from Naples to the Royal Air Force seaplane base at Calafra, Malta, is reported to have crashed near Messina, in Sicily. The service personnel on board numbered eight and there was also on board one technical official from the Royal Aircraft establishment at Farnborough.

No information is yet available of the circumstances in which the accident occurred.—British Wireless.

Shanghai, Feb. 15.
Dr. Wang Chung-hui, Judge of the International Court of Justice at the Hague, is sailing for Europe via Japan and America aboard the President Pierce, which is scheduled to leave Shanghai tomorrow morning.

On board the liner, Dr. Wang issued a written statement to pressmen setting out the results of his efforts at working out a programme for bringing about internal unification and placing the nation on a foundation during his sojourn at home. He said that the political views of various sections had become more reconciled. He was happy to see on his departure that the prospects of China's political future were brighter.—Central News.

PRINCE'S ROMANCE RUMOURS

MARRIAGE PLAN DENIED

PRINCESS OF SPAIN NAMED

(Special to "Telegraph")

London, Feb. 15.
Another rumour that H.R.H. the Prince of Wales was about to become engaged has been authoritatively denied in London.

It had been whispered for some time past in some circles that the Prince of Wales might marry Princess Maria Christina, twenty-three-year-old daughter of ex-King Alfonso of Spain.

The Prince of Wales is in his forty-first year, and although his name has been linked with those of ladies of royal blood from time to time, and would-be match-makers have gossiped of his intentions, he himself has always denied the slightest interest in marriage with any of the suggested candidates. He still remains the most eligible of bachelors.—United Press.

Washington, Feb. 15.
The Federal Reserve report for the week ended February 13, indicated that provision is being made for the retirement of all the emergency currency which was authorized during the Bank Holiday of 1933.

The report states that the currency will be not withdrawn from circulation immediately, but will be taken up as it comes into the Treasury.—United Press.

HURRIES ANTI- RED DRIVE

TWO MONTHS TO SEE COMPLETION

Nanchang, Feb. 15.
Marshal Chiang Kai-shek issued an order yesterday to Marshal Chang Hsueh-ling, Commander of the Anti-Bandit Forces in Hunan, Honan and Anhui Provinces, giving a period of two months to conclude the anti-bandit campaign in these three provinces.
If the campaign could not be concluded, or the bandits in the provincial border districts not be entirely suppressed, the ranking officers of all anti-bandit units in the fields are to be held responsible.—Central News.

STERLING SOEELY STRAINED

POUND FEARED SINKING

INDUSTRIES IN CRISIS

Paris, Feb. 15.
The weakness of sterling which has necessitated the intervention of the British Control Fund is giving rise to the wildest rumours.

Some people are saying that the British Control Fund, which last year held ear-marked gold in Paris valued at 6,000,000,000 francs, has disposed of this amount in supporting sterling and has shipped a further 200,000,000 francs to Paris.

The opinion is expressed that if sterling falls sharply against the dollar the United States may resume its policy of raising the gold price towards a fifty-cent dollar level.

Fears are also expressed for the gold currencies should sterling fall below seventy francs. It is anticipated that Continental funds will be recalled from London, which will certainly increase the pressure on sterling.—Reuter.

CAUGHT IN CRISIS

London, Feb. 15.
The wool industry is the latest to have been affected by the commodity crisis in Britain.

Messrs. Francis Willey and Company, an old-established Bradford firm of wool merchants, of which Lord Barnby is chairman, issued a statement to-day declaring a meeting of creditors had been summoned for February 21.

The Managing-Director refuses to discuss the situation.—Reuter.

FACES DIFFICULTIES

London, Feb. 15.
To-day's edition of the Evening Standard says that Mr. C. H. Underwood, Director of Francis Willey & Co., which is claimed to be the world's largest firm of wool merchants, established for a century in Bradford, has said that the firm will be faced with difficulties unless financial aid can be procured before February 21.

The amount of money required is not specified, and it is hoped that arrangements may be made with the firm's creditors, which include London and Bradford banks.

The firm has mills at South Barre and also in Poland, among altogether fifty undertakings employing 10,000 people.—United Press.

President Roosevelt to-day said that the Administration plans no change in the existing cotton control programme.

The President explained that the scheduled trip to Europe of Mr. Oscar Johnson, First Vice-President of the Commodity Credit Corporation, was for the purpose of studying market conditions in an endeavour to find means for disposing of the United States' cotton surplus.—United Press.

FERVENT DENIAL OF GUILT

MISCARRIAGE OF JUSTICE

HAUPTMANN STATEMENT

Flemington, Feb. 15.

A fervent denial of his guilt was made to-day by Bruno Hauptmann, sentenced to death for the murder of the infant son of Col. and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh, in a statement issued through his counsel.

"I feel," says the condemned man, "that a grave miscarriage of justice has occurred."

"Before God, I swear I had nothing to do with the kidnapping or murder, and know nothing whatever in connection with the crime, or the ransom money, other than as I told on the witness stand."

The statement goes on to appeal for contributions for his further defence from those who believe in his innocence.

He concludes: "I ask only for justice and the help of the public only in order that justice may be obtained."

The New York Police Commission stated to-day that the Lindbergh kidnapping case was not closed as far as New York was concerned.

"It is New Jersey's case, but if there is anybody who want in New York, that is our job," the statement said.—Reuter.

Luantung Zone Problem

CHINA'S RIGHTS RECOGNISED

Peking, Feb. 16.

Important results of a Sino-Japanese parity hold here yesterday in connection with the outstanding Sino-Japanese problems concerning North China were revealed by a high Chinese official to-day.

A number of Japanese military leaders including General Isogai, Chief of the Second Section of the General Staff in Tokyo, General Uenata, Commander-in-Chief of the Japanese Garrison Force in North China, and General Giga, special representative of the Kwantung Headquarters at Shanhaiwan, were members of the Japanese delegation at the parity.

Detailed arrangements were made permitting Chinese authorities to exercise full police control in the ex-War zone and full administrative rights in carrying out a rehabilitation programme in the Luantung districts.

The same Chinese official expressed the opinion that as a result of the parity the ambiguous situation in the Luantung zone could be definitely cleared and the situation in North China might be considerably improved.—Central News.

BERLIN APPROVES AERIAL ACCORD

ASKS BRITISH AID IN CLARIFICATION

WILL STRIVE FOR PEACE AS FOR SECURITY

London, Feb. 15.

The German Government's reply to the London communiqué despatched to Berlin following the Anglo-French Agreement, on February 8, has been published.

It is learned here to-day that the reply welcomes the proposal for air convention, and says the German Government is prepared, in principle, to employ the air forces of the nation as a deterrent against disturbances of peace. Germany is therefore disposed to seek as soon as possible, in free agreement with the Governments concerned, ways and means whereby such a convention as guarantees the greatest possible security to all signatories can be translated to reality.

The German Government believes that negotiations between a larger number of parties, sufficient provision for which has not been made, might occasion friction which should be avoided in the interests of the conclusion of such an air convention.

But before participating in any such negotiations the German Government considers it desirable to clarify in separate conversations with the other Governments concerned, a number of preliminary questions of principle. Therefore it would be glad to begin with the British Government, as a partner of the London conversations and a guarantor of the Locarno Pact, would enter into a direct exchange of views with the German Government in this matter.

EUROPE'S SOLIDARITY

The German Government concurs with the British and French Governments' opinion that the conclusion of an air convention would be an important step towards the solidarity of the European states and might be calculated to lead to a satisfactory solution of other European problems.

The German Government is at one with the British and French Governments in its sincere desire to promote and assure peace. It welcomes the spirit of friendly confidence animating the discussion between individual Governments, expressed in the Anglo-French communications.

PEACE AND SECURITY

The reply says the German Government will exhaustively examine European questions raised in the first part of the London communiqué as much in the spirit of a desire for peace as with care for the security for Germany.

The Government will examine particularly with what means the danger of an armaments race, which has arisen by the failure of the highly armed powers to carry out disarmament provided by treaty, may in the future be avoided.

Germany is convinced that only a spirit of free agreement between sovereign states, as expressed in the Anglo-French communiqué, can lead to lasting international settlements in the sphere of armaments.—Reuter.

RETIRING CURRENCY

EMERGENCY MONEY TO BE WITHDRAWN

(Special to "Telegraph")

Washington, Feb. 15.
The Federal Reserve report for the week ended February 13, indicates that provision is being made for the retirement of all the emergency currency which was authorized during the Bank Holiday of 1933.
The report states that the currency will not be withdrawn from circulation immediately, but will be taken up as it comes into the Treasury.—United Press.

LEAGUE ASSURES PEACE

WORLD'S BEST FRIEND

ANTHONY EDEN HOPEFUL

London, Feb. 15.

The Lord Privy Seal, Mr. Anthony Eden, in a speech at Rugby to-day, said he would restrict his remarks on German reply to the Anglo-French communiqué to general observations.

The Anglo-French London conversations were being followed up and would continue to be followed up, he said. Coming as they had in succession to the Franco-Italian conversations at Rome and the important meeting of the Council of the League last December, they might well mark a new and more encouraging phase in European reconstruction.

The objective of that phase must be the restoration of confidence in Europe. It was precisely for the creation of such confidence that the League of Nations and the collective peace system to which it gave expression, existed. Although still in a state of evolution, the League was definitely stronger now than six months ago. The conception of collective peace systems had surely come to stand. It was only a substitute for the balance of power which, however, nicely adjusted, could never be a final guarantor of peace.

As experience and influence accumulated, the League would steadily be better able to shoulder the responsibilities placed upon it until at length it gained that universal membership with the aid of which peaceful settlement of all disputes might become not merely an ideal, but a fact.—British Wireless.

COURT RECESS TILL MONDAY

The Supreme Court has gone into recess until Monday, February 18, apparently assuring that there will be no decision on the Gold Clause case until that date.—United Press.

How Will Miss 1950 Look? Beautiful! Says Max Factor

How will our daughters of 1950 look?

If you'd really like to know, just get out your family album and turn to the tintypes of grandma, taken when she was "sweet sixteen" and beautiful.

Miss 1950 will be a modified version of granny!

That was the prediction made recently by Max Factor, the Hollywood beauty authority who has made over some of the most famous faces in the world.

"To-day's beauty trends are turning back the calendar to the good old days when artificiality was a vice—and not a virtue," said Max Factor.

"By 1950, the so-called 'Jazz Age' when dancing daughters mercilessly plucked their brows, frizzed their hair and painted their faces like wax dolls will be forgotten.

"Restraint is the beauty mode of the day," said Max Factor. Women are learning that make-up essentials like powder, rouge and lipstick are to be used to complement the features—not to conceal them," said Max Factor. They no longer wear a mask of paint all colours of the rainbow, but select and use those tones which harmonize with and enhance their own natural colourings.

"The fad of plucking the brows until nothing is left but a semi-invisible line will also be a relic of the past in 1950," predicted Mr. Factor. "Women have learned through and experience that sky-larking brows have more than once helped only the oculist."

"The vogue for heavily-rouged lips was also discussed by Mr. Factor. "A rouge will soon be said to this foolish fad and lips that were once rouged a huge crimson red will soon be wearing their lipstick au naturel."

"Unlike most women of to-day who are fashionably foolish, the Miss of to-morrow will key her beauty code to be—fashionably feminine," concluded Mr. Factor.

So different and superior are the effects of Society Make-Up over the ordinary use of Cosmetics that those Who Know use nothing else.

INDECENT BOOKS

COLLECTION OF FILTH

TWO FINED AT LEWES

Summonses against two men for the alleged importation of indecent books and photographs into United Kingdom were heard at Lewes recently.

The men were described as Gerald Selby Lewis Griffiths, an officer of the Royal Tank Corps supplementary reserve, of Sandycombe, London Road, Tonbridge, Kent, and Clifford Bertrand Kelley, of the motor launch Amenarts, Swanwick Shore, near Southampton.

Each defendant was fined £100 and 20 guineas costs, or in default 14 days' imprisonment. They were allowed a month in which to pay.

There were two summonses against each of them. The first alleged that, between September 8 and October 25 last, they were knowingly concerned in dealing with prohibited goods, namely—indecent photographs and books, with intent to evade the prohibition applicable to such goods. The second alleged that they were concerned in importing the photographs and books into the United Kingdom. Kelley pleaded guilty, but Griffiths, who was represented by Mr. Clement Edwards, at first pleaded guilty only to a technical offence.

"Before anything was actually done in this case, Mr. Griffiths ceased, on the advice of his father, to have anything to do with the offence," said Mr. Edwards.

It was decided that Griffiths should enter a plea of not guilty.

CHARTERED A YACHT

Mr. R. M. Stephenson appeared for the Customs and Excise authorities, the complainants. "A more filthy collection of books I have never seen, although I have had some experience of this sort of thing since I was at the Customs," declared Mr. Stephenson.

He handed some paper-backed books to the Magistrate. "If you look at any page you like in these particular books you will find such words as make me sick to read," commented Mr. Stephenson.

Griffiths was the actual mover, and he led Kelley into it, said Mr. Stephenson. He understood that they lived to a great extent on money supplied by their parents, together with what they could earn themselves. On September 27 Griffiths met a man named Truo and told him that he was going to France in a yacht to fetch some French films, as there was a good market for these in London. He asked for a loan, but it was not forthcoming. Later he tried to borrow £150 from another man to whom he said he intended going to France in a yacht and then to smuggle some books into England and sell them at a profit of some 700 per cent.

Eventually, said Mr. Stephenson, Griffiths chartered a yacht at Southampton and on October 6 left in it with Kelley and a man named Ball. Griffiths returned by ordinary steamer.

Kelley had since stated that the three of them went to Paris, where books were purchased for £30. The yacht returned to Newhaven on October 24. Ball brought ashore a suitcase containing the books.

SHOULD BE BURNED

Mr. Stephenson said that Griffiths had made a statement in which he said: "I did not buy any books. I went off and Kelley

Drain them thoroughly as soon as they are light brown and crisp, and serve them on a dish paper sprinkled with caster sugar.

JUDGE AND THE TROUSSEAU

A girl's trousseau was mentioned in an action for alleged breach of promise at Berkshire Assizes. The Judge, Sir Reginald Coventry, K.C., drew attention to some of the articles—12 sets of silk underclothing, 12 pairs of silk stockings, and several nightdresses—and remarked that plaintiff had enough to last her for years.

The plaintiff replied: "You do not expect a man to buy clothes for you directly you are married." Damages amounting to £25 were awarded.

must have bought them. . . I told Kelly that in accordance with my father's instructions I was not going to have anything more to do with the business. I took no part in the purchase or the bringing over. I had dropped the business."

"They are perfectly filthy books," said Mr. Stephenson, "and the only thing that should be done to them is that they should be made into a bonfire and burnt. I hope you will endeavour to help us to stamp out this sort of trade in this rubbish."

Evidence was given by several witnesses, including Stanley Thomas Albert Ball, a private in the Tank Corps, stationed at Farnborough, who said that he sometimes used the name of Baldwin. During his visit to France with the two defendants, he saw Griffiths with one of the books.

Stars' Money-Drawing Powers

The leading American film producers have just compiled their annual lists of stars who draw most money at the box-office.

A good many enthusiastic fans will be dismayed to learn that among the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer players Greta Garbo is only sixth (says a Daily Telegraph correspondent.)

Others will be equally shocked to read that Jackie Cooper is supposed to be a bigger draw than Ramon Novarro and Chevalier, that Mae West and Bing Crosby are more popular than Marlene Dietrich, and that, next to Katharine Hepburn, Wheeler and Woolsey are the biggest attractions of Radio Pictures, not excepting Ann Harding.

Here is how the different studios class their stars—

Greta Garbo's Next

Greta Garbo and Fredric March will be co-starred by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in Tolstoy's "Anna Karenina," according to an announcement from the studios.

David O. Selznick will act as producer, and George Cukor, who has just completed "David Copperfield," will direct.

This will be the first time that Greta Garbo and Fredric March have appeared together.

ROBERT LORRAINE RETURNS

After completing a survey of Hollywood film production, and playing roles in several pictures, Robert Lorraine, the British actor, has returned to England, where he will probably embark on a new film venture.

Lorraine went to Hollywood to learn production methods. While there he played important parts in Paramount's "Father Brown, Detective," and "Limehouse Blues." In each of these films he played the part of a police officer. During his stay he learned the actor's technique before the camera, and never left the set during production, studying the methods of direction, camera work, lighting, set dressing, and costuming.

CINEMA'S HARVEST

Mr. Simon Rowson, a leading authority on cinema statistics, calculates that the weekly attendance at cinemas in Great Britain last year averaged 18,500,000.

Writing in the Daily Film Review, he estimates that the total cash receipts during the year were £40,200,000, and that of this £6,700,000 represented the tax payable.

The Hollywood Reporter, quoting the British Association of Economists, states: "All theatres in Great Britain have been having a time of unrivalled prosperity. The country is movie-mad."

COMMUNICATIONS

ARM NUMB WITH RHEUMATISM

Woman's Thanks to Kruschen

Nanking, Feb. 15.

According to a speech broadcast by Mr. Chu Chia-hua this evening, among the projects which the Ministry of Communications expects to realize during the course of the year are:

The opening of direct wireless communication with India, Australia, and Canada;

A radio telephone service both within China and with foreign countries;

The completion of a nine-province telephone system;

The inauguration of an airline between China and Rangoon, via Yunnan.

He revealed that the Ministry had purchased a number of 3½ kilowatt transmitting sets, which would be installed at Hankow, Tientsin, and Tsingtao. This would enable the stations at these places to send radiograms to Japan, the Philippines, and Annam.—Reuter.

"I have been suffering from rheumatism for years. At one time I could scarcely walk with pains in my feet. The thumb of my left hand was so stiff I could only bend it with the aid of the right hand. I was afraid to go to bed, as my right hand and arm up to the elbow used to go numb, and the pain was just terrible until I got the circulation going again. I started to take a half-teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast, and believe me I feel a different woman. I tell everyone what I take, and the good it has done me."—(Mrs.) W. A. B.

Kruschen contains six mineral salts which tone up the liver, kidneys and stomach—and keep them working smoothly and efficiently. The reward of this internal cleanliness is a freshened and invigorated blood stream. Poisonous uric acid is expelled through the natural channels, and the pains of rheumatism cease. And as you continue with Kruschen, your whole being—body and brain—responds to its purifying force.

He said to me—what is the exact meaning of discrimination . . . ?

I said to him—you wouldn't understand if I told you. Otherwise you'd be drinking Johnnie Walker . . . !

PEAK SCHOOL SPORTS ENJOYABLE MEETING HELD AT TANDERAGEE

The Peak School held an enjoyable sports meeting yesterday afternoon at "Tanderagee," the residence of His Honour the Chief Justice, Mr. A. D. A. MacGregor.

Three boys, Leslie Womack, Neville Mills and Tom Williams, had the same number of points to tie for the Senior Championship. A solution was thought to have been reached when it was agreed to allow the boys to run the 100 Yards event over again to decide the winner, but a tie again resulted between Leslie Womack and Tom Williams.

Mrs. MacGregor came to the rescue of the school authorities by kindly offering two more cups to enable all three boys to have a prize each.

Peter Walker won the Junior Championship with a total of 18 points, while Graham Young was a point behind.

Chief Justice Thanked

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs. MacGregor presented the prizes to the winners. Calling upon her to do so, Mr. A. O. Brawn, Inspector of Schools, thanked His Honour the Chief Justice and Mrs. MacGregor for the loan of the ground. He thought there was no other sports ground in the world like Tanderagee, but the only drawback to a sports meeting being held there was that the beauty of the surroundings might distract the attention of the onlookers. Mr. Brawn amused the gathering by recalling the first sports meeting in which he had participated. He was successful in only one event and that was in the tug-of-war, and when he went up to take his prize, the lady who distributed them said "what he thought to be a feeble joke. She said, 'No wonder you win. You belong to a brawny team' (Laughter). Mr. Brawn concluded by thanking the staff of the School; the parents of the pupils for having so liberally contributed to the prize fund; and Mrs. MacGregor for giving away the prizes.

AN IRISH PUZZLE

Not only Englishmen and Scotsmen, but quite a few Irishmen as well, have been puzzling their heads on the point as to whether the inhabitants of the Irish Free State can be regarded as subjects of the King under the terms of the new Irish Citizenship Bill. During the course of a recent debate in the Dail, Mr. de Valera openly asserted that when the Bill became law nobody in the Free State would be a British subject. The main object of the Bill is to extend Article 3 of the Free State Constitution, which defines Free State citizenship. Under the Bill anyone born in the Free State since the Constitution came into force in 1922 would automatically become a citizen of the Free State. Irishmen living abroad could also take up Irish citizenship if they so desired. The Constitution already defined as Irish citizens all the residents of the Free State before 1922. The Bill in itself seemed harmless enough, but what set Ireland and Great Britain thinking was the interpretation placed on it by Mr. de Valera that when the Bill became law there would be no more British subjects in the Free State. He added that he had no power, of course, to prevent the British Government from regarding Free State citizens as British subjects still. But, he said, if the British insist they will be guilty of "an impertinence." The vital importance of de Valera's interpretation of the Bill, in the view of political observers, is that it virtually repudiates the Statute of Westminster approved by all the Dominions in 1930. Under the Statute, Irishmen, Canadians and inhabitants of all the other Dominions are both citizens of their own countries and British subjects as well. Apparently, according to Mr. de Valera, the Irish Citizenship Bill would make Irishmen aliens in Great Britain or in any other part of the Commonwealth. In the meantime, the Secretary for the Dominions, Mr. J. H. Thomas, has stated that according to the British interpretation, the Bill could not deprive any person of his status as a British subject. In fact, Britons in general take up the attitude that, short of declaring a full-blooded Republic, Mr. de Valera could not deprive his countrymen of their rights as subjects of King George. None the less, the precise position still remains far from being clear.

NOTES OF THE DAY

EUROPEAN PACT

The indications seem to be that the proposed Western European accord will bear fruit of a rosy colouring, though, possibly, to some, it will not make good eating. Latterly, with the Rome Agreement and the London Anglo-French understanding there has been an encouraging move towards an improvement of international relations. Britain, France and Italy seemed to be motivated in the same cause and in the same direction, and with word from Germany that she is ready for diplomatic negotiations on the basis of the London proposals, which include an air pact for mutual assistance against an aggressor, there is a growing hope that the understanding may eventually embrace an important part of the Teutonic people. Germany, however, makes "significant" reservations with respect to the proposal for the protection of Austria's integrity. She is believed to be insisting that Austria should have the option of choosing between Nazism and monarchism. Apparently, in the German view, there are only the two alternatives. But we must remember that in the matter of Austrian politics there has recently appeared that delicate Italian touch which savours somewhat of Fascism. There may be some cause for cleavage here. All in all, however, the prospect of a Western and Central European understanding seems to be more likely.

FORGOTTEN INTERESTS

We are not aware that the interests of Poland have been forgotten by the major Powers in their negotiations for a European pact, and we are sure that France has a very strong desire to see Russia embrace any peace pacts in Europe. However, the fact that Britain and Italy stand beside, or behind her, may allow France to abandon her for the time being at least, any attempt to draw the Soviet into closer alliance. France will do nothing at this juncture to offend Germany, or to cause apprehension there, we may be sure. As for Poland, the Eastern Balkan states and the Scandinavian countries, they probably will not affect any accord in which the major Powers are to be involved. For in one case they will not be listened to, in another they scarcely know their own minds, and in the third instance they have no particular interest in such things, anyway. The Scandinavian countries are remarkable in that they mind their own business very conscientiously, and in avoiding commitments of even the most innocent sort, remain good friends of all. So, going back to the fruit of the quercy grafted tree of peace, Russia will probably be the only nation to find it in any way bitter.

AFFORDS TO SMILE

Russia, however, can afford to smile, because, as things are going, she will have the last laugh at the rest of us. The Russian industries are expanding at a pace which is nothing short of threatening. Presently, they will be in a position to flood the world with commodities of one sort or another which will severely tax their rivals in overseas competition, or drive them out of certain markets altogether. Russia is in the enviable position of not having to worry about dividends or trade unions, because of her social and economic system. She can manufacture at a cost which can only be met by Japan or China, and can afford to sell at prices which would bankrupt most nations in short order. Recently Russian matches have come into Hongkong. They sell for 20 cents for 94 full-sized boxes, and they are of excellent quality, the story goes. They are competing with the Swedish matches here which sell, for the moment, at two boxes for one cent; about 100 per cent higher. This is a case where a match may be the thin edge of a wedge. Thus, if Russia can acquire the bulk of the trade of the world she will not need to worry very much about armaments races, unless, of course, she drives some desperate rival to attacking her.

IN A WILTSHIRE VILLAGE

Although for some obscure reason we do not admit it (or, rather, do not glory in it), this is a Socialist village. We share with one another everything we possess. We do not share our money, because after we have paid for the magnificent privilege of being alive we have none left to share. We do not share land, because the land which we plough from morning till night does not, for some unaccountable reason, belong to us. It belongs to an unfamiliar class of people who know a great deal about holding their shares, but nothing whatever about sharing their holdings.

But, as far as possible, we do share our burdens and responsibilities. We share our apples and vegetables (though sometimes unwillingly and with unknown persons). We share the entrails of our pig (the warmer the weather the more generously we share them). There are those of us who would gladly share our children; and as to our wives we would evince even greater magnanimity—we would give them away complete, together with our rheumatism and our diseased potatoes.

Yet, despite this unrefutable proof of our Socialism, we have never voted for a Socialist Government, for the simple reason that we have never had the opportunity. Periodically we are confronted with a pair of Parliamentary candidates and invited to vote for the one or the other, which we solemnly do.

The one we know, for he dwells in our midst. He is styled a Conservative, but in reality he is at heart a good Socialist, bound by the fetters of empty tradition and imprisoned behind the decaying walls of convention. His lady is even a greater Socialist.

The Liberal candidate is almost invariably a stranger to us. He comes from we know not where, and entertains us for a short space of time with exceedingly bright ideas on matters which do not appear to immediately concern us. After the election he disappears from our ken for ever. In the light of our limited choice he might be described (without prejudice) as "the devil we don't know."

And so it happens that from time to time we are introduced to two colours, say, for example, blue and yellow, and invited to choose between them. Now it is possible that either is equally distasteful to us. Blue may fill us with impenetrable gloom, and yellow may render us violently sick. It may be that our favourite colour is green or pink, or even red; and which ever it happens to be it may be our earnest desire to vote for it. But our time has not yet come. The solutions to our problems are ready made for us, and the problems themselves are not of our choosing. We are still a long way from democracy. In this village our political fervour is stimulated from time to time by a delightfully social gathering of voters representing every grade of birth. In summer it takes the form of a garden party, to which we are personally invited at the cost of a half-penny stamp.

Having arrived punctually at a clearly stated time, we while away the inevitable period of waiting by standing reverently on a carpet-like lawn and admiring, through the open windows, the easy grace of the local gentry, who have rallied in support of a political celebrity, who has come a vast distance, at tremendous personal inconvenience, but with an overwhelming sense of duty, to be amongst us. They all appear to be fortifying themselves against the coming ordeal. Or, if we prefer it, we may wander at a subdued pace round the expensive garden, closely watched by the inexpensive gardeners.

And in due course, to the soothing accompaniment of the droning of bees and midst the sweet perfume of roses, we hear a very great deal about disarmament and Soviet Russia, and facts about China, or China, and we gather that we may solve all these problems by the simple process of pulling together in every conceivable direction.

On the whole we prefer the winter gathering, for it takes place in the snug club-room of the village inn. Under the influence of beer and bonhomie the speeches become more and more human; and between the speeches a professional funny man, from the neighbouring market town, sings to us in our own tongue wherein we were born, which we find intensely amusing. As the evening wears on our own local singer is prevailed on (without much difficulty) to contribute to the success of the evening. He begins too high, and then too low, and presently just right. And, having discovered to his surprise that he is on the right key, he stops the accompanist to tell him so, and begins again.

Half-way through the song his memory suddenly fails him, and, while he seeks inspiration by gazing earnestly at the surface of his beer, we all come loyally to his support and carry on the tune, singing "La, la, la, diddy, diddy, diddy," until we succeed in confounding him beyond recovery.

Undaunted, however, he starts again on a new song, but as the pianist is under the impression that it is the old song, the effect is somewhat surprising. But we are not in a critical mood. We can think of nothing more delightful than politics. We go home prepared to vote for everybody.

There dwells in our midst a lady, gauntly and calmly beautiful. Her grey-blue eyes look out with sympathy on a grey-blue world; a world grey with Godlessness; a world blue with blasphemy. No friend in sorrow is beyond the range of her restless bicycle. No creature of vulgar birth is too vulgar for her kindly greeting. No lowly home too wretched to receive the flowers of her garden. No sick person too sick to benefit by her culinary art. No poverty-stricken soul but who can loosen the strings of her slender purse. If you inquire as to her political views, she answers proudly and without hesitation that she is a Conservative.

If this be so, then truly Socialism is a religion for the gods—"ISCARIOT" in the Western Gazette.

BULLS AND INNERS

From the Office Butts

What's The Times asked the Cop paraphrased, Seventeenth of September replied the Forgermaster. You're a Helluwaella interjected the Blacksmith waving Twenty Grand, whereupon the Bold Colonel staked his Gold Coin on Bagi Umpai. What About That? chuckled the Bold Captain; Beginner's Luck should prove Lucky Again. Not if Flyby-night gets his Heart's Desire, said the Bold Major, unless the Young Chap sets a High Standard, or is offered a Double Chance. Forget-me-not, muttered the Young Captain; it's a Propitious Time for an Emergency Call! Just That!

Prosperity is just around the corner—for the man who happens to win the big Derby Sweep.

There'll be lots of real hard work done in Hongkong next week—by the ponies.

Figures must be lucky, because many people will come into money through numbers shortly.

We hear of a Peak resident who has an outside in rats in his roof. Better than bats in the belfry.

Ladies' dressmakers report good business for the Races. As usual, with many of Hongkong's women-folk it will be a case of gown and out!

We hear of a sweet young thing who insists upon backing a pony because it has brown eyes. We trust that it will not prove an optical delusion.

The ideal menu for the Races:—Potage Reine, Plat de Premier, Saddle de Mouton, Angles de Chevaux, Pummel-O, Hock, Bit de Fromage, Stirrup Cup, Coup de Grace.

Even Auntie Cyclone's got the wind up over this piracy business!

We shan't mind getting the wrong number on the telephone during Race Week so long as we get the right one on Happy Valley.

A London actress recently remarked, in an interview, that she would love to marry a dear little jockey. She probably doesn't know that in Hongkong some of these dear little fellows tip the scales at about 170 pounds.

Judging from the toll-tale marks, after hitting out at a dance the other night, a certain local flapper won by a neck!

Gilt finger-nails are now the latest craze. Another aspect of the Gold Clause question.

British Stocks Boom! Up with a bang!

A local professor is to give a talk on "Some Difficulties in Getting On in China." He can be trusted to delir into the subject.

It wouldn't be so bad if debt was the only thing some of our motorists ran into.

Maybe these young couples you see in parked cars get their ideas from the automatic clutch.

Naturalists call the great African stork the Shoebill. Husbands most likely regard him as the Doctor's Bill.

Parents are said to do most of the baby talk. No doubt the babies do it just to humour the old folk.

As in contract bridge, most of the argument will come in America when the New Deal has been played out.

Police-men in Chicago are being examined to see if any of them are suffering from flat feet. As yet, nobody has thought of looking into the other extremity.

"William, I warned you that Mrs. Boggs would be too much for you in an argument."

While Lawn Tennis claims freak players in Vivian McGrath and John Bromwich, cricket has produced a formidable rival in a young man named Maynard who comes from Shopperton, near Bessie, says a Rouser message from Sydney.

Jack Fingleton, the Australian Test player, who batted against him states that he is a slow spin bowler who runs obligingly to the wicket, twists himself about almost into a knot and unexpectedly delivers the ball from behind his neck somewhere on the left of his body, but delivered with the right hand.

Neither Fingleton, Oldfield nor Kippax, who played in the match, had seen anyone like him before.

Bill O'Brien, who put professional tennis on the map in America, intends to become a boxing promoter as well.

He is laying plans for matching Art Lasky with the winner of the Schmeling-Hamas fight which is to be held in Germany in March, and would stage the Lasky bout at either the Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds, New York, next June.

Ambitious as this is, in view of the fact that there are so many experienced fight promoters already in New York, O'Brien has still greater ideas.

He wants to stage a world championship fight the following month (July) with Max Baer defending his heavyweight championship against the winner of the Lasky-Hamas or Lasky-Schmeling battle.

Lasky has already agreed to fight under O'Brien's promotion.

GENTLEMAN AND SPORTSMAN

TRIBUTE TO LATE MR. G. T. MAY

(By "Veritas").

Bewildering in its suddenness, and poignantly tragic in circumstance, the untimely death of Mr. G. T. May has come not only to rob the Colony football circles of a magnificently keen and conscientious worker, but Hongkong of a gentleman and a sportsman.

Of no man can it be more truly said that he died in harness. Mr. May's last act was on behalf of local football, in the interests of which he had put his heart and soul for a great many years. His amazing attention to detail, his never failing willingness to give attention or advice on all matters, however small, connected with football, and his kindly humour, did not so much earn for him the respect and affection of the community, as to cement these feelings which one instinctively gained upon meeting him.

Mr. May was of a quiet and retiring disposition. He did not freely offer opinions, but when he was moved to speak he always said something of value. If it was possible for him to render assistance, one never approached Mr. May in vain.

Hongkong journalists in particular have cause to recall with esteem and affection their associations with the late secretary of the F.A.

Mr. May was a gentleman fully cognisant of the difficulties often confronting newspapermen in their efforts to secure football news, and because he could appreciate this, he went out of his way to assist them, thereby helping both the newspapers and the Football Association.

It will be no easy task to find a successor of such sterling qualities, for Mr. May indelibly stamped his personality on the more recent achievements of the F.A. and has left behind him a record worthy of any man to follow.

"HOW TO PLAY TENNIS"

Trade Shows Of Fred Perry Shorts

Fred Perry's prominence in the national Press has made the news of the ten single-reelers featuring him which are being released by British Lion particularly interesting to exhibitors.

In view of this, it has been decided to screen the Perry shorts in conjunction with all the provincial trade presentations of "Ten Minute Alibi" and "In Town Tonight," British Lion's two important new feature films. With each of these pictures two of the Perry shorts will be shown.

MORE & MORE ATTRACTIVE GAMES PROMISED

PLENTY TO INTEREST IN THE WEEK-END PROGRAMME

(By "Veritas").

Post-Christmas football has seen such a general levelling up in the standard of play among local teams that spectators are now assured of three to four attractive first division matches every week. No longer do we rely on the Chinese combinations, the Navy and Recreation to offer the best entertainment. The Fusiliers, East Lancashires, Police, Club and others are now contributing their quota for the benefit of the public, so that such matches as Club v. Artillery, Police v. Recreation, South China "B" v. East Lancashires, and Fusiliers v. Navy guarantee, so far as it is possible to guarantee anything with football, adequate return for the financial outlay demanded of "fans".

The above mentioned matches, it is probable the soldiers will win by the odd goal, or be held to a division of spoils.

Chinese Athletic are looking forward to the return of Ho Ka-keung for their match against South China "A" on the Club ground. He and Chan Chang-wo can be expected to make things hum for Li Tin-sang and his defending colleagues. In their first meeting this season, the result was far from satisfactory. The Athletic had three parts of the game yet were beaten. Better finishing by the forwards is the great thing needed of the Athletic. At the same time there will have to be a correspondingly improved display by the defence on last week's performance. If they are not to be overrun by the smart South China attack.

It is difficult to forecast the outcome of this match. South China are playing below form right now, but the Athletic are so prone to an inferiority complex when opposed to them, that they are likely to get away with another lucky win. Here are some of the teams expected to do service during the week-end.

FIRST DIVISION
Artillery—Durham, Hopkins and Clancy; Scott, Pardoe, and Harris; Edmunds, Matthews, Morton, Knight, and Smith.
Club—Rodger, Gamble, and Strange; Hynes, Skinner, and A. Duncan; Fowler, Forrow, Howe, Hill and Bickford.
Recreation—Marques, Silva-Netto, and Bowen; Delgado, A. V. Gosano and Marques; Castilho, B. Gosano, Boltrao, Gomes and Alves.
Fusiliers—Rowlands; Wheeler and Kentings; Grimley, Kenehan and Ellis; Higgs, Harrison, Dennis, Talbot and Roberts.

SECOND DIVISION
Athletic—Wong Shik-ping; Mak Sui-hon and Lo Hang-chai; Ho Chor-yin, Tsui Ah-fai, and Ng Pan-wing; Tang Kwong-shum, Yeung Pak-po, Ho Ka-keung, Chan Chang-wo, and Lee Hung-ching.
East Lancashires—Oxford; Swain and Ratcliffe; Smith, Thompson and North; Swain, Horner, Gorman, Lawton and Tuely.
Artillery—Mackrill; Price and Yoxall; Worthington, Hunt and Fisher; Riera, Brown, Sparkes, Leach and Taylor.
East Lancashires—Harnsworth; Bowater and Steele; Howley, Power,

TO-MORROW'S GAMES
There are two first division games to-morrow, and both are of prime importance and interest.
The Fusiliers and Navy meet at Sookunpoo, and on last week's performances there is nothing to choose between them. Nevertheless my inclinations are towards the Fusiliers if only because they are certain to field the best side possible, while the Navy may be confronted with the usual lugbear of last minute changes.

FAMOUS PLAYERS IN LEAGUE CRICKET

Busy Preparations For 1935 Season

AMAR SINGH A RECENT RECRUIT

The football season has just entered upon its most exciting stage, but in Lancashire the clubs of the Lancashire Cricket League have their plans completed for the coming season.

For years this league has been famous for the professionals—English, Australian, South African, West Indian—it has converted to league cricket by the promise of short, exhilarating games, bigger profits for less work (compared to the usual county programme), and a hero worship seldom to anyone under the standard of a national hero.

An eleven chosen from this list of players engaged for 1935 would offer a keen challenge to any representative English side:—
Constantine (West Indies).....Nelson
Headley (West Indies).....Hastings
Ames (India).....Caine
Blair (Derbyshire).....Merritt
R. Tyldesley (Lancashire).....Acerion
Root (Worcestershire).....Tomkinson
Hind (Australia).....Ramberton
L. B. Brown (South Africa).....Church
Merritt (New Zealand).....East Lanes.
Ryan (Gloucestershire).....Endall
Hew (Blackwell Colliery).....Dumley
Mills (Leeds).....Lowerhouse
Newton (Yorkshire).....Heslop

AMAR SINGH AND BROWN
Righton is the only club not yet fixed up with a professional. Hunt, their Australian, has returned to his own country, and so has the veteran A. J. Richardson, who has left Burnley. It had been rumoured that Righton were waiting to see the outcome of the Nottingham meeting on "bodyline," in the hope, apparently, that Voo would not renew his contract. But the announcement that both he and Larwood had signed for another three years with their county ended that story.

Amar Singh and Brown will be playing their first season in the league. Constantine, Merritt, and Headley are established favourites with the crowds. Last season the West Indies fast bowler, despite absence from five matches through injury, took more than ninety wickets at a cost of eight runs apiece, and scored 657 runs for an average of 30. It was largely due to his efforts that Nelson finished top of the table. Although Constantine is the acknowledged "star" of the league, adding hundreds to the "gate" wherever he plays, Headley is not far behind. Last season he scored his 1,000 runs for an average of over 60. It is calculated that he doubled the club's membership and was responsible for the takings rising to £785. Merritt scored 700 runs and captured 114 wickets.

In reviewing these figures it should not be thought that these international cricketers have more "rabbits" to deal with on the field. There are fine amateur batsmen and bowlers in these eleven. Hard practice in the evenings after a day in the mill or office has won them a place in the team, a coveted honour, and made them the heroes of their families. The fielding, too, is often as good as—sometimes better than—many county teams. There is no sympathy for the missed catch on the popular side. Always it is a finished game a side plays for. All over in an afternoon—therein lies the secret of the success of the Lancashire League.

Max Baer Scores With A Verbal K.O.

WIDENED BREACH WITH MADISON SQUARE GARDEN AUTHORITIES

Detroit.
The breach between Max Baer and the Madison Square Garden authorities is as wide "as the Grand Canyon," because of a battle of words between Baer and Mr. James Joy Johnston, according to the Detroit Free Press.

The paper says that when Mr. Johnston, accompanied by Mr. Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, entered Baer's dressing room here to congratulate him on having drawn a big crowd for one of his exhibition matches, the champion turned to Johnston and said:—
"Yeah, and you say I'm not doing anything to help the fight game. I gave the fight game the greatest boost it has received since Dempsey's time when I knocked out Levinsky in Chicago."

"You are the one who is ruining the fight game. You go around knocking everybody and everything. You're the smart guy."

FIVE YEARS AGO
"Five years ago when I wanted to come back against Jimmy Braddock, who turned thumbs down on the bout. You did. You said Braddock was all washed out."

"Now you have Braddock matched with Art Lasky. Is it because you own a piece of Lasky?"
"You don't want me to fight a dual bout with Lasky and Hamas? Baer shouted. "Why? Because you're afraid I'll knock Lasky into your lap."

Leaning closer to the dapper Mr. Johnston, to whom nobody had spoken in such style for many a long day, Baer continued:—
"Listen, Jimmy. You may have the fighters, the officials and the politicians on your side. But you don't have these."
He held up his two fists.
"I have these and I'll use them to beat the living daylight out of every fighter you have tied up."

JOHNSTON SILENT
The Free Press said that Mr. Johnston got in only a word or so between Baer's torrent of remarks.
Baer still continued: "When I boxed Carnera I entered the ring with everything against me. If I hadn't knocked him out the decision would have gone against me." Johnston, the paper reports, replied "Whaddya mean?"
Baer replied: "Why, Ancil Hoffman, my manager, has the judges' score cards showing that one of your judges gave Carnera six rounds to my five." Without further comment Messrs. Johnston and Jacobs left the room. —Reuter.

WHAT BIG LEAGUERS
THOUGHT OF EASTRuth Played A Good
Game In Orient

Victoria, B. C.
Connie Mack, Manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, back from a tour of the Orient with his
American League All-star team,
says that Babe Ruth played better
baseball while in Japan than he did in the United States in his last two seasons with the New York Yankees.

Ruth led the team in hitting,
Mack said, outhitting even such mighty "avengers" as Bing Miller,
Lou Gehrig and Jimmy Foxx.

GREAT RECEPTION

"The Japanese gave rousing receptions to the American players,
sometimes almost mobbing them
in the rush to pay personal tribute
to Ruth, who personifies the game
to millions of Orientals who follow
it," Mack continued.

With better pitching and hitting the Japanese clubs would be formidable, although they are handicapped by their small stature, he said.

"The Japanese teams had two or three good looking prospects
but most of their men are only
equal to our class "A" players,"
he continued.

The tremendous enthusiasm over baseball in Japan was shown, the manager said, by the fact that a total of 200,000 people turned out to see four games in Tokyo.

IN A TRIALCantabs In Close
Finish

London, Jan. 21.
The Cambridge University first
crew eclipsed a fortnight's practice with a splendid performance
on Saturday, when, although they were handicapped by some eight lengths in a 18½min. row, they finished with an advantage of nearly a quarter of a length.

This is a creditable performance, as at the beginning of the week the men did not show any semblance of a crew, but the daily
outings to Clayhithe under Mr.
Archib Nisbet have worked wonders with them—so much so that a comparatively ragged crew is turned into one with uniformity
of length and rhythm. The crews have covered approximately 68
miles in six outings during this past week.

The Dark Blues, who had their first trial over the full course at Henley on Saturday, covered the three miles from Mars Lock to Hambleton Lock in 16min. 5sec.
The performance was praiseworthy, for they had to contend with rough water and a strong head wind. D. M. de R. Winger took the crew off at 24, and maintained 23 throughout, until the final burst, when the striking was worked up to 30.

SHING MUN DAM

INTERESTING VISIT BY H.K. CONSULAR SERVICE

Yesterday afternoon, at the invitation of the Resident Engineer, Mr. G. B. Gifford, H.K. a representative party of members of the Consular Service in Hongkong paid an interesting visit to the Shing Mun works, where work on Hongkong's 3,000 million gallon dam has been in progress for over a year.

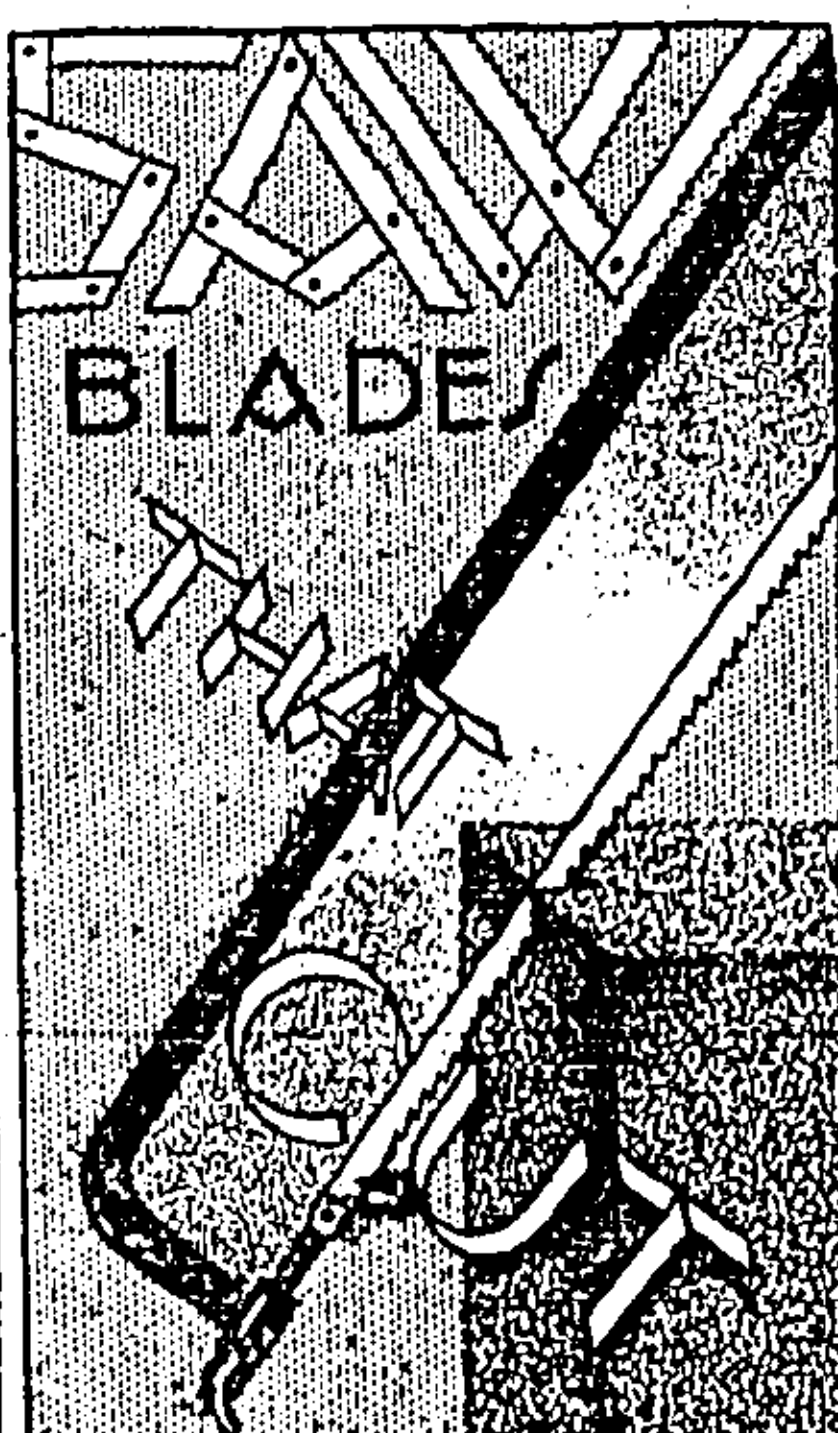

Parties were conducted by Mr. Hull, Mr. Innes, Mr. Finlay and Mr. Blinnie and visited the dam, tunnels, quarries, and witnessed the whole of the plant in operation.

Considerable interest was displayed by the visitors in all sections of the work, on which nearly 2,000 workers are now employed.

Shortly after 4 p.m. the party returned to "Saltash," King's Park, where they were entertained by Mr. Hull at tea.

Among the guests were:

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

"I had to go all the way around the world to learn to appreciate Hollywood," Ronald Colman was quoted between scenes of "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back", his first picture under his new starring contract with Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl F. Zanuck's 20th Century Pictures, which United Artists brings to the King's Theatre to-day. "no long rest enjoyed in his world tour gave Colman renewed zest for the prospect of returning to work. He was happy in the thought that his first 20th Century picture was to be "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back" for this brings him back in his favourite character. It was in this role that he scored his greatest talking screen success. The new film, directed by Roy Del Ruth for United Artists release, was adapted by Nunnally Johnson from the famous Bulldog Drummond novel by H. C. McNeille. Loretta Young, Warner Oland, Charles Butterworth, Una Merkel, C. Aubrey Smith, Kathleen Burke and Arthur Hohl head the supporting cast.

"One Is Guilty," the Columbia mystery thriller dealing with two murders which occur in an empty apartment house is due shortly at the Queen's Theatre. Ralph Bellamy again enacts the starring role of "Inspector Trent" which he played in "Before Midnight," first of the series of exciting detective pictures from the Columbia studios. Shirley Grey, Willard Robertson, Rita La Roy, Vincent Sherman and Harry Todd are the supporting players who turn in excellent performances. The first-named being the leading lady opposite Bellamy. Based on an original story and screen play by Harold Shumate, "One Is Guilty" shows how the modern scientific detective unravels tangled clues, clearing the innocent of suspicion and pinning the crime on the guilty. It is action-packed and will thrill all motion picture goers from the start to the smashing climax and the romance through it adds to the story unlike most other mystery pictures.

"Roman Scandals" Eddie Cantor in "Roman Scandals," is showing at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Ruth Etting, Gloria Stuart and David Manners appear with him in the pop-eyed comedian's fourth annual musical comedy for Samuel Goldwyn, succeeding his "The Kid From Spain" of last year. Its story is that of a wide-eyed, hard-beaten lad in West Rome, Oklahoma, who, by the power of his imagination, is carried back to strange adventures in the Rome of the Caesars. Fair maid in distress among the Emperor's captive beauties, intrigue in the affairs of state and a clever ruse which Eddie tries to escape figure in the riotous story, which ends in a thundering chariot race to the sea. Samuel Goldwyn has maintained his tradition for lavish production, beautiful girls and lilting music. Al Dubin, Harry Warren and L. Wolfe Gilbert have given Eddie three new tunes and written a plaintive ballad for Ruth Etting. Busby Berkeley staged the big dance spectacles.

"This Man Is Mine" Three celebrities of the screen world—Irene Dunne, Ralph Bellamy and Constance Cummings—completely abandon the rules of etiquette to provide brilliant comedy-drama in Miss Dunne's now-starring picture "This Man Is Mine." In a marital triangle story which reveals the fact that socialites are much like their proletarian brothers and sisters when it comes to domestic strife, Bellamy is lured from his screen mate, Miss Dunne, by an habitual home-wrecker, played by Miss Cummings. When he loses the siren to another man he goes home to repent on Miss Dunne's shoulder, but finds, much to his surprise, that the hand of welcome is a hand of iron. "This Man Is Mine" is what may truly be termed a comedy of manners which goes from the ridiculous to the sublime and from the subtle satire to broad comedy. Splendid characterisations by the leading cast, together with excellent directing by John Cromwell, make the picture both entertaining and convincing. Supporting players include Sidney Blackmer, Kay Johnson, Charles Starrett, Vivian Tobin and Louis Mason. It is showing at the Star Theatre.

"One Night of Love" "One Night of Love", a glorious romantic production with glamorous foreign backgrounds and music is entertaining capacity audiences at the Queen's Theatre. Directed by Columbia by Victor Schertzinger and adapted to the screen by James Gow, Edmund North and S. K. Lauro, this picture stars the charming stage and radio star, Grace Moore with Tullio Carminati, playing opposite her. He is seen as Monteverdi, a great music teacher in Italy who offers to train her for the operatic stage, but warns her that there must be no love affair between them, a former pupil of his having been lost to operatic fame because she fell in love with him. When, however, this pupil, Lally, returns and engineers a scene with him to provoke Miss Moore's jealousy she returns to America with an American friend of hers and there is given the opportunity to sing at the Metropolitan. Without the guidance and proximity of Monteverdi, her voice chokes in her throat but when she recognises the voice from the promoter's box as his, she captivates the audience with her glorious voice and after the performance joins Monteverdi on the road to happiness. The supporting cast of this production includes Lily Talbot as the American friend, Jessie Ralph, Lydin Westman and Andrea de Sengalo, all of whom turn in good performances.

Brilliant weather, sharply contrasting with the conditions on the first day last year, favoured the opening of the Jockey Club's 1935 Meeting this morning. There was only a meagre attendance for the first two events, but later large crowds assembled to witness some thrilling sport.

STERLING SOEELY STRAINED

POUND FEARED SINKING

INDUSTRIES IN CRISIS

Paris, Feb. 15. The weakness of sterling which has necessitated the intervention of the British Control Fund is giving rise to the wildest rumours.

Some people are saying that the British Control Fund, which last year held ear-marked gold in Paris valued at 6,000,000,000 francs, has disposed of this amount in supporting sterling and has shipped a further 200,000,000 francs to Paris.

The opinion is expressed that if sterling falls sharply against the dollar the United States may resume its policy of raising the gold price towards a fifty cent dollar level.

Fears are also expressed for the gold currencies should sterling fall below seventy francs.

It is anticipated that Continental funds will be recalled from London, which will certainly increase the pressure on sterling.

CAUGHT IN CRISIS

London, Feb. 15. The wool industry is the latest to have been affected by the commodity crisis in Britain.

Messrs. Francis Wilby and Company, an old-established Bradford firm of wool merchants, of which Lord Barnby is chairman, issued a statement to-day declaring a meeting of creditors had been summoned for February 21.

The Managing Director, refuses to discuss the situation. —Reuter.

FACES DIFFICULTIES
London, Feb. 15. To-day's edition of the Evening Standard says that Mr. C. H. Underwood, Director of Francis Wilby & Co., which is claimed to be the world's largest firm of wool merchants, established for a century in Bradford, has said that the firm will be faced with difficulties unless financial aid can be procured before February 21.

The amount of money required is not specified, and it is hoped that arrangements may be made with the firm's creditors, which include London and Bradford banks.

The firm has mills at South Barre and also in Poland, among altogether fifty undertakings employing 10,000 people. —United Press.

Fascist Plot In America

INVESTIGATORS' REPORT

BUTLER'S CHARGES

(Special to "Telegraph")
Washington, Feb. 15. The Committee of the House of Representatives investigating the charge that Fascist or Nazi plotters were at work in the United States, to-day delivered a report to Congress, and substantiated the allegation of General Smedley Butler, ex-U.S. Marine Corps Commander, that he was offered command of a Fascist march on Washington some months ago.

However, the report added that there was no evidence "to show connection between this effort and any Fascist activity in any European country."

It was charged that accredited agents of foreign nations were active in America, organized to spread propaganda. Sharply worded implications involving the Governments of Russia, Germany, Italy and Mexico were handed to Congress.

The Committee recommended decisive Congressional action to end what was found to have constituted a threat to the democratic form of Government in the United States.

Concerning General Butler's charges the Committee reported that it "had received evidence showing that certain persons attempted to establish a Fascist organization. There is no question that attempts were discussed and planned and might have been executed when and if the financial backers deemed it expedient."

The Committee charged that Russia had failed to follow American recognition of the Soviet with implementation of the pledge to halt Communist propaganda in the United States. —United Press.

Communist Round-Up

DUTCH POLICE PRECAUTIONS

(Special to "Telegraph")
Amsterdam, Feb. 15. With the arrest of ten German Communists to-day on charges of engaging in political agitation, the Dutch police now have in custody 26 foreign Communists.

Pending the decision of the Minister of Justice as to their fate, the Government is considering establishment of a special concentration camp for foreigners convicted of political agitation. —Reuter Special.

FERVENT DENIAL OF GUILT

MISCARRIAGE OF JUSTICE

HAUPTMANN STATEMENT

Flemington, Feb. 15. A fervent denial of his guilt was made to-day by Bruno Hauptmann, sentenced to death for the murder of the infant son of Col. and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh, in a statement issued through his counsel.

"I feel," says the condemned man, "that a grave miscarriage of justice has occurred."

"Before God I swear I had nothing to do with the kidnapping or murder, and know nothing whatever in connection with the crime, or the ransom money, other than as I told on the witness stand."

The statement goes on to appeal for contributions for his further defence from those who believe in his innocence.

He concludes: "I ask only for justice and the help of the public only in order that justice may be obtained."

The New York Police Commission stated to-day that the Lindbergh kidnapping case was not closed as far as New York was concerned.

"It is New Jersey's case, but if there is anybody who want in New York, that is our job," the statement said. —Reuter.

Instructions To Viceroy

GUIDE TO SOUND GOVERNMENT

(Special to "Telegraph")
London, Feb. 15. A draft instrument of instructions to the Governor-General of India on the conduct of his office under the new Constitution, has been issued for the approval of Parliament.

It gives directions on the spirit and principles by which the Governor-General is to exercise his powers and responsibilities and repeats the present instructions to the Governor-General that his trust should be so exercised that "the partnership between India and the United Kingdom within the Empire may be furthered to the end that India may attain her due place among the Dominions."

A draft of similar instructions to the Provincial Governors was issued simultaneously. —Reuter Special.

GERMAN SETS MILE MARK

FAST TIME MADE ON ROAD TRIAL

(Special to "Telegraph")
Lucen, Feb. 15. The German motorist Von Stuck broke an international class record here to-day for a flying mile, averaging 199.018 miles per hour.

This is the fastest time ever driven on the road by any car.

Von Stuck had bad luck when attempting a new record for the flying kilometre, as, following the establishment of a record average of 201.178 miles per hour, it was announced the time would not be allowed to stand since the electric chronometer had not functioned properly.

Both previous records were held by the Italian, Carradice, his speed for the mile being 198.77 miles per hour. —Reuter Special.

COMMUNICATIONS

AMBITIOUS PROGRAMME OUTLINED

Nanking, Feb. 15.

According to a speech broadcast by Mr. Chu Chia-hua this evening, among the projects which the Ministry of Communications expects to realise during the course of the year are:

The opening of direct wireless communication with India, Australia, and Canada;

A radio telephone service both within China and with foreign countries;

The completion of a nine-province telephone system;

The inauguration of an airline between China and Rangoon, via Yunnan.

He revealed that the Ministry had purchased a number of 3½ kilowatt transmitting sets, which would be installed at Hankow, Tientsin, and Tientsin. This would enable the stations at these places to send radiograms to Japan, the Philippines, and Annam.—Reuter.

ARM NUMB WITH RHEUMATISM

Woman's Thanks to Kruschen

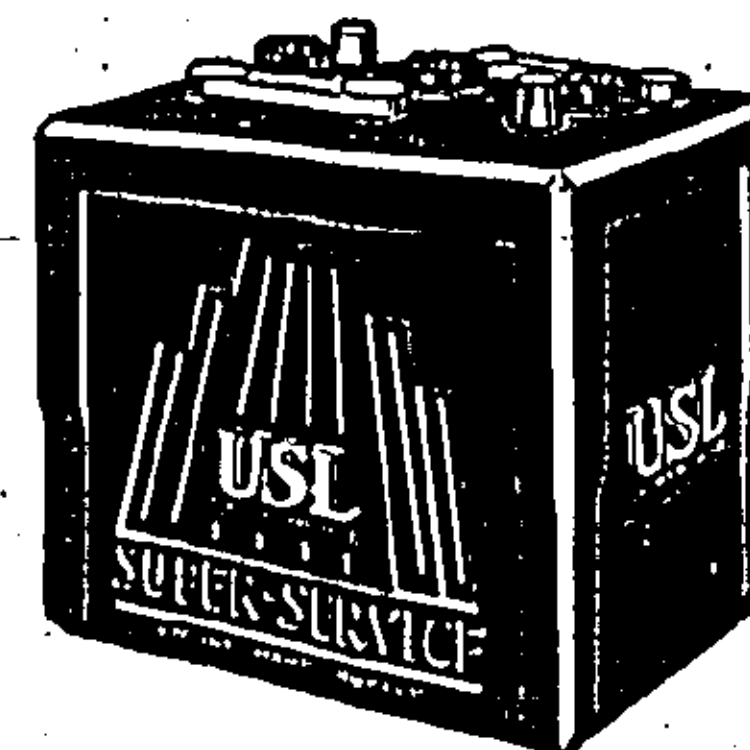

"I have been suffering from rheumatism for years. At one time I could scarcely walk with pains in my feet. The thumb of my left hand was so stiff I could only bend it with the aid of the right hand. I was afraid to go to bed, as my right hand and arm up to the elbow used to go numb, and the pain was just terrible until I got the circulation going again. I started to take a half-teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast, and believe me I feel a different woman. I tell everyone what I take, and the good it has done me."—(Mrs.) W. A. B.

Kruschen contains six mineral salts which tone up the liver, kidneys and stomach—and keep them working smoothly and efficiently. The reward of this internal cleanliness is a freshened and invigorated blood stream. Poisonous uric acid is expelled through the natural channels, and the pains of rheumatism cease. And as you continue with Kruschen, your whole being—body and brain—responds to its purifying force.

PEAK SCHOOL SPORTSENJOYABLE MEETING HELD AT TANDERAGEE

The Peak School held an enjoyable sports meeting yesterday afternoon at "Tanderagee," the residence of His Honour the Chief Justice, Mr. A. D. A. MacGregor.

Three boys, Leslie Womack, Neville Mills and Tom Williams, had the same number of points to tie for the Senior Championship. A solution was thought to have been reached when it was agreed to allow the boys to run the 100 Yards event over again to decide the winner, but a tie again resulted between Leslie Womack and Tom Williams.

Mrs. MacGregor came to the rescue of the school authorities by kindly offering two more cups to enable all three boys to have a prize each.

Peter Walker won the Junior Championship with a total of 18 points, while Graham Young was a point behind.

Chief Justice Thanked

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mrs. MacGregor presented the prizes to the winners. Calling upon her to do so, Mr. A. O. Brown, Inspector of Schools, thanked His Honour the Chief Justice and Mrs. MacGregor for the loan of the ground. He thought there was no other sports ground in the world like Tanderagee, but the only drawback to a sports meeting being held there was that the beauty of the surroundings might distract the attention of the onlookers.

Mr. Brown amused the gathering by recalling the first sports meeting in which he had participated. He was being held in only one event and that was in the tug-of-war, and when he went up to take his prize, the lady who distributed them said what he thought to be a feeble joke. She said, "No wonder you win. You belong to a brawny team" (laughter). Mr. Brown concluded by thanking the staff of the School, the parents of the pupils for having so liberally contributed to the prize fund, and Mrs. MacGregor for giving away the prizes.

AN IRISH PUZZLE

Not only Englishmen and Scotsmen, but quite a few Irishmen as well, have been puzzling their heads on the point as to whether the inhabitants of the Irish Free State can be regarded as subjects of the King under the terms of the new Irish Citizenship Bill. During the course of a recent debate in the Dail, Mr. de Valera openly asserted that when the Bill became law nobody in the Free State would be a British subject. The main object of the Bill is to extend Article 3 of the Free State Constitution, which defines Free State citizenship. Under the Bill anyone born in the Free State since the Constitution came into force in 1922 would automatically become a citizen of the Free State. Irishmen living abroad could also take up Irish citizenship if they so desired. The Constitution already defined as Irish citizens all the residents of the Free State before 1922. The Bill in itself seemed harmless enough, but what set Ireland and Great Britain thinking was the interpretation placed on it by Mr. de Valera that when the Bill became law there would be no more British subjects in the Free State. He added that he had no power, of course, to prevent the British Government from regarding Free State citizens as British subjects still. But, he said, if the British insist they will be guilty of "an impertinence." The vital importance of de Valera's interpretation of the Bill, in the view of political observers, is that it virtually repudiates the Statute of Westminster approved by all the Dominions in 1930. Under the Statute, Irishmen, Canadians and inhabitants of all the other Dominions are both citizens of their own countries and British subjects as well. Apparently, according to Mr. de Valera, the Irish Citizenship Bill would make Irishmen aliens in Great Britain or in any other part of the Commonwealth. In the meantime, the Secretary for the Dominions, Mr. J. H. Thomas, has stated that according to the British interpretation, the Bill could not deprive any person of his status as a British subject. In fact, Britons in general take up the attitude that, short of declaring a full-blooded Republic, Mr. de Valera could not deprive his countrymen of their rights as subjects of King George. None the less, the precise position still remains far from being clear.

NOTES OF THE DAY

EUROPEAN PACT

The indications seem to be that the proposed Western European accord will bear fruit of a rosy colouring, though possibly, to some, it will not make good eating. Lately, with the Rome Agreement and the London Anglo-French understanding there has been an encouraging move towards an improvement of international relations. Britain, France and Italy seemed to be motivated in the same cause and in the same direction, and with word from Germany that she is ready for diplomatic negotiations on the basis of the London proposals, which include an air pact for mutual assistance against an aggressor, there is a growing hope that the understanding may eventually embrace an important part of the Teutonic people. Germany, however, makes "significant" reservations with respect to the proposal for the protection of Austria's integrity. She is believed to be insisting that Austria should have the option of choosing between Nazism and monarchism. Apparently, in the German view, there are only the two alternatives. But we must remember that in the matter of Austrian politics there has recently appeared that delicate Italian touch which savours somewhat of Fascism. There may be some cause for cleavage here. All in all, however, the prospect of a Western and Central European understanding seems to be more likely.

FORGOTTEN INTERESTS

We are not aware that the interests of Poland have been forgotten by the major Powers in their negotiations for a European pact, and we are sure that France has a very strong desire to see Russia embrace any peace pacts in Europe. However, the fact that Britain and Italy stand beside, or behind her, may allow France to abandon, for the time being at least, any attempt to draw the Soviet into closer alliance. France will do nothing at this juncture to offend Germany, or to cause apprehension there, we may be sure. As for Poland, the Eastern Balkan states and the Scandinavian countries, they probably will not affect any accord in which the major Powers are to be involved. For in one case they will not be listened to, in another they scarcely know their own minds, and in the third instance they have no particular interest in such things, anyway. The Scandinavian countries are remarkable in that they mind their own business very conscientiously, and in avoiding commitments of even the most innocent sort, remain good friends of all. So, going back to the fruit of the queerly grafted tree of peace, Russia will probably be the only nation to find it in any way bitter.

AFFORDS TO SMILE

Russia, however, can afford to smile, because, as things are going, she will have the last laugh at the rest of us. The Russian industries are expanding at a pace which is nothing short of threatening. Presently they will be in a position to flood the world with commodities of one sort or another which will severely tax their rivals in overseas competition, or drive them out of certain markets altogether. Russia is in the enviable position of not having to worry about dividends or trade unions, because of her social and economic system. She can manufacture at a cost which can only be met by Japan or China, and can afford to sell at prices which would bankrupt most nations in short order. Recently Russian matches have come into Hongkong. They sell for 20 cents for 54 full-sized boxes, and they are of excellent quality, the story goes. They are competing with the Swedish matches here which sell, for the moment, at two boxes for one cent; about 100 per cent higher. This is a case where a match may be the thin edge of a wedge. Thus, if Russia can secure the bulk of the trade of the world she will not need to worry very much about armaments races, unless, of course, she drives some desperate rival to attacking her.

IN A WILTSHIRE VILLAGE

Although for some obscure reason we do not admit it (or, rather, do not glory in it), this is a Socialist village. We share with one another everything we possess. We do not share our money, because after we have paid for the magnificent privilege of being alive we have none left to share. We do not share land, because the land which we plough from morning till night does not, for some unaccountable reason, belong to us. It belongs to an unfamiliar class of people who know a great deal about holding their shares, but nothing whatever about sharing their holdings.

But, as far as possible, we do share: our burdens and responsibilities. We share our apples and vegetables (though sometimes unwillingly and with unknown persons). We share the entrails of our pig (the warmer the weather the more generously we share them). There are those of us who would gladly share our children; and as to our wives we would evince even greater magnanimity—we would give them away complete, together with our rheumatism and our diseased potatoes.

Yet, despite this unrefutable proof of our Socialism, we have never voted for a Socialist Government, for the simple reason that we have never had the opportunity. Periodically we are confronted with a pair of Parliamentary candidates and invited to vote for the one or the other, which we solemnly do.

The one we know, for he dwells in our midst. He is styled a Conservative, but in reality he is at heart a good Socialist, bound by the fetters of empty tradition and imprisoned behind the decaying walls of convention. His lady is even a greater Socialist.

The Liberal candidate is almost invariably a stranger to us. He comes from we know not where, and entertains us for a short space of time with exceedingly bright ideas on matters which do not appear to immediately concern us. After the election he disappears from our ken for ever. In the light of our limited choice he might be described (without prejudice) as "the devil we don't know."

And so it happens that from time to time we are introduced to two colours, say, for example, blue and yellow, and invited to choose between them. Now it is possible that either is equally distasteful to us. Blue may fill us with impenetrable gloom, and yellow may render us violently sick. It may be that our favourite colour is green or pink, or even red; and which ever it happens to be it may be our earnest desire to vote for it. But our time has not yet come. The solutions to our problems are ready-made for us, and the problems themselves are not of our choosing. We are still a long way from democracy. In this village our political fervour is stimulated from time to time by a delightfully social gathering of voters representing every grade of birth. In summer it takes the form of a garden party, to which we are personally invited at the cost of a half-penny stamp.

Having arrived punctually at a clearly stated time, we while away

the inevitable period of waiting by standing reverently on a carpet-like lawn and admiring, through the open windows, the easy grace of the local gentry, who have rallied in support of a political celebrity, who has come a vast distance, at tremendous personal inconvenience, but with an overwhelming sense of duty, to be amongst us. They all appear to be fortifying themselves against the coming ordeal. Or, if we prefer it, we may wander at a subdued pace round the expensive garden, closely watched by the inexpensive gardeners.

And in due course, to the soothing accompaniment of the droning of bees and midst the sweet perfume of roses, we hear a very great deal about disarmament and Soviet Russia, and facts about China, or China, and we gather that we may solve all these problems by the simple process of pulling together in every conceivable direction.

On the whole we prefer the winter gathering, for it takes place in the snug club-room of the village inn. Under the influence of beer and bonhomie the speeches become more and more human; and between the speeches a professional funny man, from the neighbouring market town, sings to us in our own tongue wherein we were born, which we find intensely amusing. As the evening wears on our own local singer is prevailed on (without much difficulty) to contribute to the success of the evening. He begins too high, and then too low, and presently just right. And, having discovered to his surprise that he is on the right key, he stops the accompanist to tell him so, and begins again.

Half-way through the song his memory suddenly fails him, and, while he seeks inspiration by gazing earnestly at the surface of his beer, we all come loyally to his support and carry on the tune, singing "La, la, la, diddy, diddy, diddy," until we succeed in confounding him beyond recovery.

Undaunted, however, he starts again on a new song, but as the pianist is under the impression that it is the old song, the effect is somewhat surprising. But we are not in a critical mood. We can think of nothing more delightful than politics. We go home prepared to vote for everybody.

There dwells in our midst a lady, gauntly and calmly beautiful. Her grey-blue eyes look out with sympathy on a grey-blue world; a world, grey with Godlessness; a world blue with blasphemy. No friend in sorrow is beyond the range of her restless bicycle. No creature of vulgar birth is too vulgar for her kindly greeting. No lowly home too wretched to receive the flowers of her garden. No sick person too sick to benefit by her culinary art. No poverty-stricken soul but who can loosen the strings of her slender purse. If you incline as to her political views, she answers proudly and without hesitation that she is a Conservative.

If this be so, then truly Socialism is a religion for the gods—"ISCARIOT" in the Western Gazette.

BULLS AND INNERS

From the Office Butts

What's The Times asked the Copywriter, Seventeenth of September roped the Forgemaster. You're a Helluafella interloped the Blacksmith waving Twenty Grand, whereupon the Bold Colonel staked his Gold Coin on Bagt Umpat. What About That? chuckled the Bold Captain; Beginner's Luck should prove Lucky Again. Not if Flyby-night gets his Hear's Desire, said the Bold Major, unless the Young Chap sets a High Standard, or is offered a Double Chance. Forget-me-not, muttered the Young Captain; it's a Propitious Time for an Emergency Call! Just That!

Prosperity is just around the corner—for the man who happens to win the big Derby Sweep.

There'll be lots of real hard work done in Hongkong next week—by the ponies.

Figures must be lucky, because many people will come into money through numbers shortly.

We hear of a Peak resident who has an outsize in rats in his roof. Better than bats in the belfry.

Ladies' dressmakers report good business for the Races. As usual with many of Hongkong's women-folk it will be a case of gown and out!

We hear of a sweet young thing who insists upon backing a pony because it has brown eyes. We trust that it will not prove an optical delusion.

The ideal menu for the Races:—Potage Reine, Platea Premier, Saddle de Mouton, Angus de Cheveaux, Pummel-O, Hock, Bit de Fromage, Stirrup Cup, Coup de Grace.

Even Auntie Cyclone's got the wind up over this piracy business!

We shan't mind getting the wrong number on the telephone during Race Week so long as we get the right one at Happy Valley.

A London actress recently remarked, in an interview, that she would love to marry a dear little jockey. She probably doesn't know that in Hongkong some of these dear little fellows tip the scales at about 170 pounds.

Judging from the tell-tale marks, after sitting out at a dance the other night, a certain local flapper won by a neck!

Gilt finger-nails are now the latest craze. Another aspect of the Gold Clause question.

British Stocks Boom! Up with a bang!

A local professor is to give a talk on "Some Difficulties in Getting On in China." He can be trusted to delir into the subject.

It wouldn't be so bad if debt was the only thing some of our motorists ran into.

Maybe these young couples you see in parked cars get their ideas from the automatic clutch.

Naturalists call the great African stork the Shoebill. Husbands most likely regard him as the Doctor's Bill.

Parents are said to do most of the baby talk. No doubt the babies do it just to humour the old folk.

As in contract bridge, most of the argument will come in America when the New Deal has been played out.

Policemen in Chicago are being examined to see if any of them are suffering from flat feet. Ah yes, nobody has thought of looking into the other extremity.

LEAGUE
ASSURES
PEACEWORLD'S BEST
FRIENDANTHONY EDEN
HOPEFUL

London, Feb. 15.

The Lord Privy Seal, Mr. Anthony Eden, said he would restrict his remarks on German reply to the Anglo-French communication to general observations.

The Anglo-French London conversations were being followed up and would continue to be followed up, he said. Coming as they had in succession to the Franco-Italian conversations at Rome and the important meeting of the Council of the League last December, they might well mark a new and more encouraging phase in European reconstruction.

The objective of that phase must be the restoration of confidence in Europe. It was precisely for the creation of such confidence that the League of Nations and the collective peace system to which it gave expression, existed.

Although still in a state of evolution, the League was definitely stronger now than six months ago. The conception of collective peace systems had surely come to stand. It was only a substitute for the balance of power which, however, nicely adjusted, could never be a final guarantor of peace.

As experience and influence accumulated, the League would steadily be better able to shoulder the responsibilities placed upon it until at length it gained that universal membership with the aid of which peaceful settlement of all disputes might become not merely an ideal, but a fact.—British Wireless.

Aerial
Accord
ApprovedBRITISH AID IN CLARIFICATIONPEACE WITH SECURITY

London, Feb. 15.

The German Government's reply to the London communication despatched to Berlin following the Anglo-French Agreement, on February 3, has been published.

It is learned here to-day that the reply welcomes the proposal for air convention, and says the German Government is prepared, in principle, to employ the air forces of the nation as a deterrent against disturbances of peace. Germany is therefore disposed to seek as soon as possible, in free agreement with the Governments concerned, ways and means whereby such a convention as guarantees the greatest possible security to all signatories can be translated to reality.

The German Government believes negotiations between a larger number of parties, sufficient provision for which has not been made, might occasion friction which should be avoided in the interests of the conclusion of such an air convention.

But before participating in any such negotiations the German Government considers it desirable to clarify in separate conversations with the other Governments concerned, a number of preliminary questions of principle. Therefore it would be glad if, to begin with, the British Government, as a partner of the London conversations and a guarantor of the Locarno Pact, would enter into a direct exchange of views with the German Government in this matter.

EUROPE'S SOLIDARITY

The German Government concurs with the British and French Governments' opinion that the conclusion of an air convention would be an important step towards the solidarity of the European states and might be calculated to lead to a satisfactory solution of other European problems.

The German Government is at one with the British and French Governments in its sincere desire to promote and assure peace. It welcomes the spirit of friendly confidence animating the discussion between individual Governments, expressed in the Anglo-French communications.

PEACE AND SECURITY

The reply says the German Government will exhaustively examine European questions raised in the first part of the London communication as much in the spirit of a desire for peace as with care for the security for Germany.

The Government will examine particularly with what means the danger of an armaments race, which has arisen by the failure of the highly armed powers to carry out disarmament provided by treaty, may in the future be avoided.

Germany is convinced that only a spirit of free agreement between sovereign states, as expressed in the Anglo-French communication, can lead to lasting international settlements in the sphere of armaments.—Reuter.

An industrial leader, he was chairman of the John Bright and Sons, Ltd., Rochdale, and of John Slater (Stoke) Ltd., and chairman and managing director of Berry Hill Collieries. He was closely associated, too, with French and German mining interests.

He played football for the Bolton Wanderers from 1908 to 1912.

H.K.A.A. DINNER DANCE

Booking is now open at the Hongkong and Peninsula Hotels for tables at the Hongkong Automobile Association's annual dinner dance, and members are requested to make their reservations as early as possible. Always one of the brightest events of the winter social season, it is safe to predict that a large number of residents will be present at the Peninsula Hotel on March 1st.

STATUE SQUARE

Motorists parking in Statue Square should always leave their cars with the radiator outwards, i.e. back in to the kerb. There are two main reasons why this should become a general practice, and bringing them to the notice of people concerned should have the desired effect. Firstly, closer supervision can be exercised in guarding radiator caps (which are in such demand amongst a certain class of thief) and, secondly, the practice of driving straight out on to the kerb against backing out, is a much safer procedure. Only the other day, a collision was narrowly averted when a driver started to back out more or less blindly just at the moment another car swung into the Square.

IGNORING "EVA"

There appears to be considerable misunderstanding amongst some drivers, particularly bus drivers, who are driving from the direction of Blake Pier along Pedder Street with the intention of turning left into Des Voeux Road. Obstruction is frequently caused quite unnecessarily by such vehicles stopping when the red light is showing. The general practice in the Colony is that cars may turn left against a red light, thus running into the traffic stream with it. It might be a good idea to occasionally station a traffic officer at certain points where such conditions exist with the object of imparting the necessary instructions to drivers.

KOWLOON DANGER SPOT

Near the junction of Carnarvon and Kimberley Roads exists a particularly bad right-hand turn which calls for the utmost caution on the part of all drivers. Cars proceeding into Kimberley Road should exercise special care at this point until such time when the corner will be straightened out.

THE NEW 10 H. P. FORD

The new 10 h.p. British-built De Luxe Ford four-door saloon has arrived in the Colony and already has created considerable interest amongst motorists. It is the small car which created a veritable sensation at last year's London Motor Shows—decidedly another break-away in style and value, giving a surprising amount of room for four, plus maximum comfort. It is in acceleration that this new model is outstanding, giving a remarkable performance. In appearance this new model is extremely attractive, and is very completely equipped. At its price it offers astonishingly good value, and Messrs. Wallace Harper & Co. Ltd., anticipate placing a large number on the roads in this part of the world.

ICE HOUSE STREET

The recent case of a motorist being fined for leaving his car unattended in Ice House Street serves to draw the attention of motorists to the fact that the locality is not a parking area. Quite a number of motorists, particularly owner-drivers, appear to be labouring under a misapprehension in this respect, although, on the other hand, there is no reason to assume that parking is permissible on this street. Motorists are advised to bear this advice in mind.

NUISANCE REMEDIED

We learn from the Honorary Secretary of the H.K.A.A. that a surface drain will shortly be laid on the south side of the Fire Brigade area adjoining the Kowloon car park. When practising "wet" drill, a considerable quantity of water usually floods over to a portion of the park, much to the inconvenience of motorists leaving after having parked their cars. The consideration shown by the Director of Public Works will be greatly appreciated.

IN CONCLUSION

Last week's observations concerning the work of the H.K.A.A. have, it is understood, not been in vain. Motorists do apparently appreciate the assistance rendered by the Association, and the only excuse for not joining in a number of cases is merely that old stand-by "Procrastination." Those who are not yet members are requested to communicate with the Honorary Secretary, care of Messrs. Linstead and Davis, Gloucester Building.

FREAK BOWLER NOW

Unusual Cricket "Find" Made In Australia

London. While Lawn Tennis claims freak players in Vivian McGrath and John Bromwich, cricket has produced a formidable rival in a young man named Maynard who comes from Shepparton, near Benalla, says a Reuters message from Sydney.

Jack Fingleton, the Australian Test player, who has been against him since he was a slow spin bowler who runs obliquely to the wicket, twists himself about almost into a knot and unexpectedly delivers the ball from behind his neck somewhere on the left of his body, but delivered with the right hand.

Neither Fingleton, Oldfield nor Kippax, who played in the match, had seen anyone like him before.

BILL O'BRIEN WOULD PROMOTE BOXING

Ambition To Stage Big Heavyweight Card

Now York. Bill O'Brien, who put professional tennis on the map in America, intends to become a boxing promoter as well.

He is laying plans for matching Art Lasky with the winner of the Schmeling-Hamas fight which is to be held in Germany in March, and would stage the Lasky bout at either the Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds, New York, next June.

Ambitious as this is, in view of the fact that there are no many experienced fight promoters already in New York, O'Brien has still greater ideas.

He wants to stage a world championship fight the following month (July) with Max Baer defending his heavyweight championship against the winner of the Lasky-Hamas or Lasky-Schmeling battle. Lasky has already agreed to fight under O'Brien's promotion.

GENTLEMAN AND SPORTSMAN

TRIBUTE TO LATE MR. G. T. MAY

(By "Veritas").

Bewildering in its suddenness, and poignantly tragic in circumstance, the untimely death of Mr. G. T. May has come not only to rob the Colony football circles of a magnificently keen and conscientious worker, but Hongkong of a gentleman and a sportsman.

Of no man can it be more truly said that he died in harness. Mr. May's last act was on behalf of local football, in the interests of which he had put his heart and soul for a great many years. His amazing attention to detail, his never failing willingness to give attention or advice on all matters, however small, connected with football, and his kindly humour, did not so much earn for him the respect and affection of the community, as to cement these feelings which one instinctively gained upon meeting him.

Mr. May was of a quiet and retiring disposition. He did not freely offer opinions, but when he was moved to speak he always said something of value. If it was possible for him to render assistance, one never approached Mr. May in vain.

Hongkong journalists in particular have cause to recall with esteem and affection their associations with the late secretary of the F.A.

Mr. May was a gentleman fully cognisant of the difficulties often confronting newspapermen in their efforts to secure football news, and because he could appreciate this, he went out of his way to assist them, thereby helping both the newspapers and the Football Association.

It will be no easy task to find a successor of such sterling qualities, for Mr. May indelibly stamped his personality on the more recent achievements of the F.A. and has left behind him a record worthy of any man to follow.

MORE & MORE ATTRACTIVE GAMES PROMISED

PLENTY TO INTEREST IN THE WEEK-END PROGRAMME

(By "Veritas").

Post-Christmas football has seen such a general levelling up in the standard of play among local teams that spectators are now assured of three to four attractive first division matches every week. No longer do we rely on the Chinese combinations, the Navy and Recreation to offer the best entertainment. The Fusiliers, East Lancashires, Police, Club and others are now contributing their quota for the benefit of the public, so that such matches as Club v. Artillery, Police v. Recreation, South China "B" v. East Lancashires, and Fusiliers v. Navy guarantee, so far as it is possible to guarantee anything with football, adequate return for the financial outlay demanded of "fans".

The above mentioned matches, which together with the South China "A" v. Athletic tie, happen to constitute the schedule for this week-end, promise lots of good things.

The splendid improvement by the Artillery, and the consistent, if somewhat moderate form of the Club indicates an interesting encounter at Happy Valley to-day. The Police-Recreation match has the makings of a thrilling struggle. Both teams have reputations; the one to retain and the other to redeem. There you have the stimulus for a first class game.

The re-entry into league football of South China "B" is signalled by a match with East Lancashires at Caroline Hill. The soldiers have been making quiet, but pronounced headway, and with a reorganised attack are quite capable of upsetting the youthful, virile, keen, but somewhat inexperienced Chinese.

ONE ARTILLERY CHANGE The Artillery are making one change from the team which beat the Athletic last week, and it is not an unexpected move. Butterfield, who was not impressive at inside right on Sunday, gives way to Matthews, a player with a lot of initiative and a reliable shot.

If the forwards can reproduce their lively methods of attack, I shall expect the Artillery to win. It is not likely the Recreation will make any changes in personnel to-day, but there is a distinct chance that V. Gosano will move out of the forward line to defence. It may be found advisable to put him at centre-half, and the Recreation can do much worse than bring Beltrao in as leader of the attack.

The Recreation were well beaten last week, but that does not make them any the less dangerous to other teams, and the Police will have to put their best foot forward to avoid defeat. I think a draw is the most likely result.

TOMORROW'S GAMES There are two first division games to-morrow, and both are of prime importance and interest.

The Fusiliers and Navy meet at Sookunpoo, and on last week's performances there is nothing to choose between them. Nevertheless my inclinations are towards the Fusiliers if only because they are certain to field the best side possible, while the Navy may be confronted with their usual bugbear of last minute changes. If the teams turn out unchanged it is probable the soldiers will win by the odd goal, or be held to a division of spoils.

Chinese Athletic are looking forward to the return of Ho Ka-keung for their match against South China "A" on the Club ground.

He and Chan Chang-wo can be expected to make things hum for Li Happy Valley to-day. The Police-Tin-ang and his defending colleagues. In their first meeting this season, the result was far from satisfactory. The Athletic had three parts of the game yet were beaten. Better finishing by the forwards is the great thing needed of the Athletic. At the same time there will have to be a correspondingly improved display by the defence on last week's performance if they are not to be overrun by the smart South China attack.

It is difficult to forecast the outcome of this match. South China are playing below form right now, but the Athletic are so prone to an inferiority complex when opposed to them, that the league leaders may easily get away with another lucky win.

Here are some of the teams expected to do service during the week-end.

FAMOUS PLAYERS IN LEAGUE CRICKET

Busy Preparations For 1935 Season

AMAR SINGH A RECENT RECRUIT

The football season has just entered upon its most exciting stage, but in Lancashire the clubs of the Lancashire Cricket League have their plans completed for the coming season.

For years this league has been famous for the professionals—English, Australian, South African, West Indian—it has converted to league cricket by the promise of short, exhilarating games; bigger profits for less work (compared to the usual county programme), and a here worship seldom to anyone under the standard of a national hero.

An eleven chosen from this list of players engaged for 1935 would offer a keen challenge to any representative English side.

Constantine (West India)..... Nelson Headley (West India)..... East Lanes. Ryan (Lancashire)..... East Lanes. Hesp (Blackwall Colliery)..... Burnley. Moline..... Lowestoft. Newman (Newcastle)..... Burnley.

AMAR SINGH AND BROWN. Righton is the only club not yet fixed up with a professional. Hunt, their Australian, has returned to his own country, and so has the veteran A. J. Richardson, who has left Burnley. It had been rumoured that Righton were waiting to see the outcome of the Notts protest meeting on "bodyline," in the hope, apparently, that Voo would not renew his contract. But the announcement that both he and Larwood had signed for another three years with their county ended that story.

—Amar Singh and Brown will be playing their first season in the league. Constantine, Morrill, and Headley are established favourites with the crowds. Last season the West India fast bowler, despite absence from five matches through injury, took more than ninety wickets at a cost of eight runs apiece, and scored 657 runs for an average of 86. It was largely due to his efforts that Nelson finished top of the table. Although Constantine is the acknowledged "star" of the league, adding hundreds to the "gate" wherever he plays, Headley is not far behind. Last season he scored his 1,000 runs for an average of over 50. It is calculated that he doubled the club's membership and was responsible for the takings rising to £735. Morrill scored 700 runs and captured 114 wickets.

In reviewing these figures it should not be thought that these international cricketers have more "rabbits" to deal with on the field. There are fine amateur batsmen and bowlers in these eleven. Hard practice in the evenings after a day in the mill or office has won them a place in the team, a coveted honour, and made them the heroes of their families. The fielding, too, is often as good as—sometimes better than—many county teams. There is no sympathy for the missed catch on the popular side. Always it is a finished game a side plays for. All over in an afternoon—therein lies the secret of the success of the Lancashire League.

Max Baer Scores With A Verbal K.O.

WIDENED BREACH WITH MADISON SQUARE GARDEN AUTHORITIES

Detroit. The breach between Max Baer and the Madison Square Garden authorities is as wide "as the Grand Canyon," because of a battle of words between Baer and Mr. James Joy Johnston, according to the Detroit Free Press.

The paper says that when Mr. Johnston, accompanied by Mr. Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, entered Baer's dressing room here to congratulate him on having drawn a big crowd for one of his exhibition matches, the champion turned to Johnston and said:

"Yes, and you say I'm not doing anything to help the fight game. I gave the fight game the greatest boost it has received since Dempsey's time when I knocked out Levinsky in Chicago."

"You are the one who is ruining the fight game. You go around knocking everybody and everything. You're the smart guy."

FIVE YEARS AGO. "Five years ago when I wanted to come back against Jimmy Braddock, who turned thumbs down on the bout. You did. You said Braddock was all washed out."

"Now you have Braddock matched with Art Lasky. Is it because you own a piece of Lasky?"

"You don't want me to fight a dual bout with Lasky and Hamas?" Baer shouted. "Why? Because you're afraid I'll knock Lasky into your lap."

Loaning closer to the dapper Mr. Johnston to whom nobody had spoken in such style for many a long day, Baer continued:—

"Listen Jimmy. You may have the fighters, the officials and the politicians on your side. But you don't have these."

He held up his two fists. "I have these and I'll use them to beat the living daylight out of every fighter you have tied up."

JOHNSTON SILENT. The Free Press said that Mr. Johnston got in only a word or so between Baer's torrent of remarks.

Baer still continued: "When I boxed Cammer I entered the ring with everything against me. If I hadn't knocked him out the decision would have gone against me. Johnston, the paper reports, replied "Whaddya mean?"

Baer replied: "Why, Ancliff Hoffman, my manager, has the judges' score cards showing that one of your judges gave Cammer six rounds to my five."

Without further comment Messrs. Johnston and Jacobs left the room. —Reuter.

Ruth Played A Good
Game In Orient

Victoria, B. C.
Connie Mack, Manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, back from a tour of the Orient with his
American League All-star team,
says that Babe Ruth played better
baseball while in Japan than he did in the United States in his last two seasons with the New York Yankees.

Ruth led the team in hitting,
Mack said, outitting even such mighty "swatters" as Bing Miller,
Lou Gehrig and Jimmy Fox.

GREAT RECEPTION

"The Japanese gave rousing re-
ceptions to the American players,
sometimes almost mobbing them
in the rush to pay personal tribute
to Ruth, who personifies the game
to millions of Orientals who follow
it," Mack continued.

With better pitching and hitting
the Japanese clubs would be formidable, although they are handicapped by their small stature, he said.

"The Japanese teams had two or three good looking prospects
but most of their men are only
equal to our class "A" players,"
he continued.

The tremendous enthusiasm over baseball in Japan was shown, the manager said, by the fact that a total of 200,000 people turned out
to see four games in Tokyo.

OXFORD CREW IN A TRIAL

Cantabs In Close
Finish

London, Jan. 21.
The Cambridge University first
crew eclipsed a fortnight's practice with a splendid performance
on Saturday, when, although they were handicapped by some eight lengths in a 13 1/4 min. row, they finished with an advantage of
nearly a quarter of a length.
This is a creditable performance, as at the beginning of the week the men did not show any
semblance of a crew, but the daily
outings to Claythorpe under Mr.
Archib Nisbet have worked wonders with them—so much so that
a comparatively ragged crew is turned into one with uniformity
of length and rhythm. The crews
have covered approximately 58
miles in six outings during this past week.

The Dark Blues, who had their first trial over the full course at Henley on Saturday, covered the three miles from Marsh Lock to Hambleden Lock in 18min. 5sec.
The performance was praise-
worthy, for they had to contend
with rough water and a strong head wind. D. M. de R. Winsor
took the crew off at 24, and maintained 23 throughout until the final burst, when the striking was worked up to 30.

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

"I had to go all the way around the world to learn to appreciate Hollywood," Ronald Colman was quoted as saying between scenes of "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back", his first picture under his new starring contract with Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl Zanuck's 20th Century Pictures, which United Artists brings to the King's Theatre to-day. The long rest enjoyed in his world tour gave Colman renewed zest for the prospect of returning to work. He was happy in the thought that his first 20th Century picture was to be "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back", for this brings him back in his favourite character. It was in this role that he scored his greatest talking screen success. The new film, directed by Roy Del Ruth for United Artists release, was adapted by Annally John from the novel by H. C. McNeille. Loretta Young, Warner Oland, Charles Butterworth, Una Merkel, C. Aubrey Smith, Kathleen Burke and Arthur Hohl head the supporting cast.

"One Is Guilty," the Columbia mystery thriller dealing with two murders which occur in an empty apartment house is due shortly at the Queen's Theatre. Ralph Bellamy again enacts the starring role of "Inspector Trent", which is the first of a series of exciting detective pictures from the Columbia studios. Shirley Gray, Willard Robertson, Rita La Roy, Vincent Sherman and Harry Todd are the supporting players who turn in excellent performances. The first-named being the leading lady opposite Bellamy. Based on an original story and screen play by Harold Shumate, "One Is Guilty" shows how the modern scientific detective unravels tangled clues, clearing the innocent of suspicion and pinning the crime on the guilty. It is action-packed and will thrill all motion picture goers from the start to the smashing climax and the romance through it adds to the story unlike most other mystery pictures.

"Roman Scandals"

Eddie Cantor in "Roman Scandals," is showing at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Ruth Etting, Gloria Stuart and David Manners appear with him in the pop-eyed comedian's fourth annual musical comedy for Samuel Goldwyn, succeeding his "The Kid From Spain" of last year. Its story is that of a wide-eyed, brow-beaten lad in West Rome, Oklahoma, who, by the power of his imagination, is carried back to strange adventures in the Rome of the Caesars. Fair maidens in distress among the Emperor's captive beauties, intrigue in the affairs of state and a deep secret with which the lad is connected figure in the riotous story, which ends in a thundering chariot race to the sea. Samuel Goldwyn has maintained his tradition for lavish production, beautiful girls and luring music. Al Dubin, Harry Warren and L. Wolfe Gilbert have given Eddie three new tunes and written a plaintive ballad for Ruth Etting. Busby Berkeley staged the big dance spectacles.

"This Man Is Mine"

Three celebrities of the screen world—Irene Dunne, Ralph Bellamy and Constance Cummings—completely abandon the rules of etiquette to provide brilliant comedy-drama in Miss Dunne's new starring picture "This Man Is Mine." In a marital triangle story which reveals the fact that socialites are much like their own people, the picture shows how a woman comes to domestic strife, Bellamy is lured from his screen mate, Miss Dunne, by an habitual home-wrecker, played by Miss Cummings. When he loses the siren to another man he goes home to repent on Miss Dunne's shoulder, but finds much to his surprise, that the hand of welcome is a hand of iron. "This Man Is Mine" is what may truly be termed a comedy of manners which goes from the ridiculous to the sublime and from subtle satire to broad comedy. Splendid characterizations by the entire cast, together with excellent direction by John Cromwell, make the picture both entertaining and convincing. Supporting players include Sidney

"One Night of Love"

"One Night of Love", a glorious romantic production with glamorous foreign backgrounds and music is entertaining capacity audiences at the Queen's Theatre. Directed for Columbia by Victor Schertzinger and adapted to the screen by James Gow, Edmund North and S. K. Lauren, this picture stars the charming stage and radio star, Grace Moore with Tullio Carminati playing opposite her. It is seen as Monteverdi, a great music teacher in Italy who offers to train her for the operatic stage, but warns her that there must be no love affair between them, a former pupil of his having been lost to operatic fame because she fell in love with him. When, however, this pupil, Lally, returns and engineers a scene with turns and provokes Miss Moore's jealousy she returns to America with an American friend of hers and there is given the opportunity to sing at the Metropolitan. Without the guidance and proximity of Monteverdi, her voice chokes in her throat but when she recognises the voice from the prompter's box as his, she captivates the audience with her glorious voice and after the performance joins Monteverdi on the road to happiness. The supporting cast of this production includes Lyle Talbot as the American friend, Jessie Ralph, Lydia Westman and Andres de Sergulo, all of whom turn in good performances.

SERIAL STORY— Lovable

BY TITARY RAYMOND

CHAPTER XLII

Ann picked up the newspaper as in a dream. Fearing to take it, dreading what she would see there. Headlines, no doubt, about Peter divorcing a girl named Ann Hollister who had deserted him last spring.

"Gosh! These rich," Sheila said, relinquishing the newspaper. "Think of anybody having money enough to build a town!"

Ann was staring down at the folded pages. Peter's face. His dear, dear face. His eyes, looking sober in this picture. Not too happy looking. Peter was building a town, not divorcing her. Only building a town!

She sat down, weakly, in a chair and began to read. But she could not keep her eyes from the picture. "For goodness' sake, come on! Dinner's getting cold," Sheila complained.

"Go ahead. Don't wait for me." There was a full column and Ann read every word, reluctantly laying the newspaper aside at last.

"How queer, you look excited or something," Sheila said. "I'm afraid I don't get much kick from the doings of the rich. After all, they don't affect people like us."

"No," Ann said.

"Anyway, if he does spend millions for people who work in his factories, we heard he didn't treat his wife right. They said at the store she had to run away from him. He must have been pretty mean for her to leave him, with all that money."

Sheila's mouth fell open. "For the love of Mikel!" She sat on a stool near the couch, crossed her slim legs and lifted her dark eyes wonderingly to Ann.

"Can you beat that? I don't call that Kendall fellow good, Ann. It's probably just a big splurge to get in the papers. Maybe an advertising stunt for all you know. Even if they do build the town it will probably be taken out of the pay envelopes of the people who work there. Anyway, why should we get all hot and bothered about it. It doesn't put cream in your coffee and it doesn't keep my feet from being stepped on."

Ann laughed a little, shakily. "Well, that's an angle."

"Sure, it's an angle. I will say, though, this fellow is good-looking enough to make a girl's heart go thump-thump. Good night and no more weep!"

When Sheila had gone Ann lay down on the couch. The light from a floor lamp fell upon Peter's picture. An old picture, of course. No one could persuade Peter to have a picture taken now.

"You made a dreadful mistake," Ann said to the picture. "Loving Valeria instead of me. She won't like your factory people. She'll hate you for being a building nice, clean house for them, giving them baths and books. And, after a while she'll pull you away from them because she'll want you to be building tall, monumental buildings of stone and iron instead of little frame houses."

And then, because she couldn't bear thinking such thoughts, Ann said fiercely to herself, "Stop being melodramatic!"

She lifted Peter's picture and laid her lips on his. She had been married to Peter and yet had never kissed him. She wished she knew what it was like to be kissed by Peter. But she would never know now.

She went to the window and looked out. Only the harsh outlines of the buildings across the way and the dark gulf that was the street between met her eyes.

At Valeria's apartment, perhaps, Peter was discussing his plans. Talking about the new homes, the new movie house. Everything new, like the fresh start the workers would have.

Ann wondered if Valeria would understand all Peter was trying to do and if she would be willing to help him.

It was raining when Ann awoke in the morning. She had slept fitfully. Her eyes were shadowed when she came to breakfast.

Sheila had toiled, eggs and coffee ready. "One good turn deserves another," she said cheerfully. "Gosh, was I glad not to see a stack of greasy dishes! Say, Ann, you look as though you'd been drawn through a keyhole. Your eyes are red."

"I didn't sleep very well. Too much coffee, maybe."

"You had better take it easy to-day."

PEDDER BUILDING—HONGKONG.

CANTON BRANCH—No. 4, Shakes Street.

I'm staying down town to have dinner with Jimmy. We're going to a show afterward and won't be home until late. Get a bite somewhere."

"I guess I will," Ann said slowly. "Maybe I'll stop in at a movie."

"Wear your goggles! You can't afford to be sick when you're so new on your job."

It rained all day. Just a drizzle during the morning, then a hard, driving rain in the afternoon, sweeping against the skyscrapers into the sudden, fierce gusts. Few customers came in and the long day dragged to a close.

Ann had not gone out for lunch. The Barbers had insisted that she should share their simple fare. But when six o'clock came Ann bundled into her coat, put on her goggles and started homeward—the big umbrella Professor Barber had insisted on lending her, held close to her head.

A car came splashing along on the water-filled street and drew up by the curb.

"Ann!"

"For heaven's sake, get in here. What do you mean starting out in this rain?"

Ann climbed in. "What in the world are you doing on this street?"

"What would I be doing here but looking for you? They said in the store that you had just started off to catch a car!"

"You probably saved me a wetting."

"Probably saved you pneumonia. Of all the dumb humbugs!"

"Anyway, I'm glad you came."

"You're going home with me for dinner. The kids want you to come."

"I really shouldn't. I haven't been very well to-day. Some other time."

"No time like the present. I'm expecting you."

"Well, all right. I'd love to see them all."

They sped through the city and soon were on the highway. The speedometer was touching 45. Now it registered 50. Ann saw that Allan was driving too fast and not very carefully.

"Let's slow up a bit," she suggested.

"Let's not," he laughed.

He had been drinking. She could smell the liquor, and even if she had not the way he was handling the car would have told the story.

Ann wished suddenly that she had not come.

Here's another interesting and unusual hand from an Ohio champion, W. H. Howe of Youngstown, a member of the team of four that holds the Ohio state contract championship. It certainly looks as if South must lose two diamonds, and if East refuses to cover the ten of spades, two spade tricks. But here's how the hand was made.

Howe sat in the South position. West opened the king of diamonds.

When it held, he shifted to the singleton eight of clubs. The trick was won in dummy with the ten spot and now the ten of spades played. East played the deuce and Howe was careful to play the six spot, noting the drop of West's seven.

The five of spades then was played from dummy and East played the three. Remember that East had bid no trump and doubled, and the declarer had already located the ace and queen. So now the five spot was allowed to ride, Howe playing the four spot from his own hand, West discarding a heart.

A small heart was played from dummy and trumped by the declarer with the eight of spades. The jack of diamonds was returned, West winning the trick with the ace.

Now, West cannot lay down his ace of hearts, as that would establish dummy's king; so he returned a diamond, which was won in dummy with the queen, the declarer being careful to discard the ace of clubs. A small heart was ruffed with the nine of spades. The four of clubs was won in dummy with the jack and the ten of hearts returned and ruffed with the jack of spades.

Today's Contract Problem

South is playing in a match point tournament. His contract is three no trump. He recovers the five of spades opening, plays a club, and then finesse a heart, which East wins with the queen. East returns a spade and West shows out, discarding a high diamond, which marks him with the king. Would you play for just three no trump?
